WAR SUMMARY OF THE LATEST EVENTS

That Lord Kitchener is a volunteer appears from his speech in the House of Lords Wednesday. Referring to the measure proposed by the Government for calling up the unmarried men who have not offered their services, before taking steps to embody the married men who have offered theirs, the War Secretary said: "So far we have been able to provide for the large increase in the army and its maintenance on a purely voluntary system, and I personally always hoped we should be able to finish the war successfully without changing a system that has done so well, and which has given us such splendid material in the field as the soldiers now fighting in the different theatres of the war. I do not consider that the change proposed should be regarded in the light of any derogation of the principle of voluntary service in this country. It affects during the period of the war only one class of men, amongst whom there are undoubtedly a number who have a poor idea of their duties as citizens and who require some persuasion greater than an appeal to bring them to the colors."

There is no longer doubt that by the exercise of pressure on the small class of unmarried men to whom he thus refers Lord Kitchener will be able to get an army great enough to win the war in conjunction with the armies of the Allies. Before the Derby recruiting campaign began Mr. Asquith announced that approximately 3,000,000 men had enlisted. Under the Derby scheme 2,400,000 have enlisted on condition that they shall be called out in classes as required, beginning with the younger unmarried men, and taking all unmarried men up to 41 before any married men are called up. There are understood to be about 350,000 unmarried men who have not offered to serve and who will be compelled to do so under the new law. The British army can be raised to a total enrollment of 5,750,000 men by the measures taken. Of this total 5,400,000 have presented themselves voluntarily, and only 350,000 will have answered under compulsion. This is a magnificent tribute to British patriotism. Had the Emperor William and his advisers considered such a result of voluntary service possible there would have been no war. Adding to Britain's 5,750,000 men those from British overseas Dominions, the Empire will have prepared for or put into the field—if the war lasts till of 1917—not less than 6,500 diers.

This vast army added to of Russia, France and Italy the end wear down the Germans by sheer force of numerical strength in men by the of this year, in the field a serves easily available, less than double that of the powers. The logic of the must convince the General Berlin that if any further operations are to be undertaken the armies of the Central Powers must be undertaken before are too great. That is what military writers expect a decisive in the west within the weeks. There are as yet no where it will develop. The midnight report tells of a German attack on the trenches between Hill 193 and of Tahure. The Germans were completely repulsed. Nothing occurred elsewhere on the front.

Austria, it is reported from has called up her last line of many of whom are unfit for vice, and will be employed in the rear. The new give the following access strength: January 15th, February 15th, 227,000; March 140,000. After this half million bodied Austria must declare bankrupt in the matter of active service.

There is no official confirmation of the reported fall of Czernowit. An official Austrian report issued day night declares that "the Hungarian troops fighting Galicia and on the frontier win, have everywhere remained victorious." The Russian attack region between the Dniester and Pruth are said to have been with heavy losses to the Russians despite "the heaviest artillery attacks." Special praise is given to Croatian and South Hungarian units, which "held out in the most difficult circumstances." grad reports state that they have evacuated Czernowit, sure, but these reports are from the War Office. The Russians across Volhynia to cut the communications at Kovel, ing rapidly, and will have consequences on all the German south of the Pripiet marshes.

Huge Army in Bukovina continues Its Press

Battle Which Centres on Has for Its Purpose of the Menace on Rou the Aid of That Kingdo to Break the Back of Line in the Balkans.

LONDON, Jan. 4.—The Crown land of Bukovina, vince of Volhynia and a part of Bessarabia constitute ground of violent fighting two huge armies, Russian tro-German, which began week ago, and is still in with the Russians the attack with Roumania's eventual prize coveted.

In Bukovina the battle upon Czernowitz, the capital the Russians, who yesterday a height, are apparently making but steady headway. In five-day battle has been the Styra and on the Bug, of Czartorysk, north of and to the Pripiet marshes ysk, on the Kovel-Sarny been for months bitterly but never since the Galician the earlier stages of the fighting for this point been and so protracted as it is in struggle, still undecided.

Russia's campaign in continues to be the most visible war activity. From pet to the Roumanian front a front of at least 300 miles Russian force with a guarantee of confidence is hurling hammer blows at the opposition, according to all totals at least a million men.

Petrograd reports successes in the early stage campaign, and despatches the excellent equipment and munitions which Russia for this purpose during comparative passivity.

Some London observers on the meaning of the move, hail it as one of the bitious strategic plans signalling of hostilities, at that it will prove a colossal to break the backbone of manie allies' whole line Balkans.

Thus one critic says: "The plan is that Russia other allies, moving from sides, shall meet in the Balkan complete mastery of sula. If they succeed, Turkey subdued and the vital of Hungary menaced."

So long as Russia keeps present activity just north Roumanian border, the Roumania will continue its importance.

The Russian official Saturday reports the gain liminary successes by the on the front south of Pripiet bursting through of the Austrian wire entanglement section between the Dnie and Roumanian border, a successful consolidation of the tions there.

TO DOUBLE ARMY.

Canada's Overseas Forces Will Be Increased to 500,000 Men.

OTTAWA, Jan. 4.—The Dominion of Canada will double its overseas army. An increase of 100 per cent. in the authorized total for overseas service was announced by Sir Robert Borden in a notable New Year message to the Canadian people. "Yesterday," he said, "the authorized forces of Canada numbered 250,000, and the number enlisted was rapidly approaching that limit. To-day, the first day of the new year, our authorized force will be 500,000. This announcement is made in token of Canada's unflinching resolve to crown the justice of our cause and an abiding peace."

Only a little over a month ago announcement was made of the Government's authorization of 250,000 men as Canada's total force. Now, almost on its heels, comes the doubling of this number of fighting men. It will be a big task for the military organization of the Dominion, for its means that what has been done in the way of enlistment will have to be duplicated.

PREPARING FOR ATTACK.

Enemy Forces Are Threatening
Allied Base at Salonica.

LONDON, Jan. 4.—There are signs of renewed activity in Macedonia,
where it is reported unofficially that German and Austrian forces are gathering at Monastir, in South-western Serbia, near the Greek border.
Conflicting reports are received concerning the intention of the Bulgarians, but Premier Radoslavoff is quoted as having said they would soon begin an advance into Greek territory to attack the French and British at Salonica.

Another despatch from Berlin,
however, says that, according to the Bulgarian commander-in-chief, Gen.
Jecoff, no decision on this point had been reached a week ago.

The Allies continue their expectant attitude toward a threatened attack, although Greece seems mainly occupied in making various diplomatic protests, having followed up her polite protest to the Entente against the arrest of the Consuls by an equally polite protest to the central powers against their aeroplanes flying across Greek territory in a raid which killed
a Greek shepherd and a few sheep.

The Berlin Morgen Post publishes a report that orders have been given to the German and Austrian troops in Serbia to advance into Greece and attack the French and British. A Bucharest despatch to the Morgen Post credits this statement to the Outro of Sofia. It is said Germany has communicated to Greece her desire to clear Grecian territory of the Allied forces. The German Minister at Athens, the despatch says, told Premier Skouloudis the best interests of Greece demanded the removal of the French and British, inasmuch as in the existing circumstances Greece would be exposed to danger from the troops of the Central powers, which have been ordered to pursue the Allies on Greek territory.

VICTORIES FOR RADIALS.

Twenty Out of Twenty-four Municipalities Behind Scheme So Far.

TORONTO, Jan. 4.—The construction of a public-owned radial system in Western Ontario was definitely assured yesterday. Eighteen municipalities voted upon Sir Adam Beck's Hydro radial project, and only four went against the by-law—the Townships of Waterloo, Blanchard, North Easthope, and East Zorra.

The following municipalities endorsed the radial: Port Credit, Trafalgar, Milton, Wilmet, Nassagaweya, Esqueving, Guelph Township, Waterloo, New Hamburg, Stratford, Downey, St. Mary's, London Township, Biddulph.

These are in addition to the victories won by the scheme in four cities and two towns on New Year's Day.

The by-laws were carried by a sweeping majority of 15,385 in Toronto Saturday, and by substantial majorities in London, Berlin, and Guelph. In Toronto the vote was four to one in favor of the by-law. The verdict was three to one for the radials in Guelph and in Berlin. Though the total vote was comparatively small the majority surpassed the expectations of the supporters. The vote in London was about 57 per cent. in favor. Curiously, the actual majority for the by-law in each of these cities was between 630 and 680. Though the majority for the Jewels of the Maharajah of Kapur-

Been Lost Aboard Torpedoed Steamer—No Warning Was Given Before Missile Was Launched—
U. S. Consul Among the Dead.

LONDON, Jan. 4.—The Peninsular and Oriental Steamship Company has received a despatch from Malta saying that 11 more survivors of the steamer Persia have been landed, including Lord Montagu.

A Cairo despatch to The Evening
News says that the jewels of the Maharajah of Kapurthala, valued at $4,000,000, were lost aboard the steamer Persia. The members of the Maharajah's suite were aboard the ship, but the Maharajah himself intended to join at Port Said.

No warning was given the Persia
before the torpedo was launched, according to authoritative information which it is reliably understood Robert P. Skinner, American Consul-General here, has in his possession.

Out of a total of 400 passengers and crew on the steamer only 153 were saved. This number of survivors have arrived at Alexandria, Egypt. It is possible that a few more may be added.

The number of lives lost was therefore 235 or a number very close to that, making the disaster of the Persia second only to the Lusitania loss
among the list of passenger steamers sunk by German and Austrian submarines. When the Italian steamship Ancona, which ranks in the third place, was sunk 209 lives were lost.

Of the 153 persons saved only 59 were passengers, the other 94 being of the crew, and 59 of these being Lascars. There were 241 passengers on board and 159 crew.

There were 87 women among the passengers. Of these only 17 are known to have been picked up. In addition there were 30 children. It is feared that all of the latter lost their lives.

Among those who perished was United States Consul-General Robert N. McNeely, on his way to his new post at Aden, Arabia.

Charles H. Grant, of Boston, the second American positively known to have been on the Persia, was saved.
His name came among the first list of survivors.

The survivors include ten military officers and eight persons who are not British subjects.

"The ship was struck amidships on the port side at 1.10 p.m.," says Reuter's correspondent at Cairo. "She had disappeared completely by 1.15.

"Survivors say it was little short of a miracle that anyone was saved.
There was no panic. Four boats were launched with the utmost promptitude.

"The captain was drowned. When last seen he was swimming, after the liner had plunged beneath the surface."

The Peninsular and Oriental Steamship Company last night received the following telegram from Col.
C. C. Bigham, who was among the survivors of the Persia disaster:

"A torpedo struck the ship on the port bow at 1.05 o'clock in the afternoon when about 40 miles south of the east-end of the Island of Crete.

THE TONKA BEAN.

From It We Get the Perfume Known
as New Mown Hay.

Grass, freshly cut or otherwise, has had nothing to do with the production of the perfume labeled "New Mown Hay." The source of the essence is really the tonka bean, found in the tropical countries of South America, chiefly in the valleys of the Orinoco, Caura and Cuchivero rivers in Venezuela and certain sections of Colombia and Brazil.

The tonka bean tree in some cases reaches a height of sixty feet. It has plumate leaves and large panicles of flowers, which are succeeded by a pod containing a single seed. The odor, which is remarkably strong, resembles that of sweet clover new mown hay
and is due to the presence of cumarin,
a crystallizable, volatile, neutral substance which is soluble in alcohol or ether and somewhat so in boiling water, from which it crystallizes on cooling. The beans are often frosted with crystals of this substance, giving them
the appearance of being sugar coated.
The collectors in Venezuela and Colombia usually set out for the forests in February, when the fruit begins to ripen. They go up the rivers in canoes or skiffs by the hundreds, stopping wherever the trees are plentiful, and when the fruit begins to fall the pods are gathered and taken to some open space where sunshine is plentiful and there carefully crushed and the beans extracted and then spread out to dry.
When thoroughly dried they are loaded into the boats and transported to Ciudad Bolivar or some other convenient port, where they are sold to the exporting merchants. Here they go through the process of crystallization
by being steeped in strong rum or alcohol for about twenty-four hours and then again dried.

They lend their fragrance to high grade tobacco, fine toilet soaps, to "brilliantine" and other hair dressings and dyes, to cosmetics, to flavoring extracts used in confections and to many other things that gratify the sense of smell.

FINANCIAL SENSE.

Take Care of What You Earn and Then Invest It Wisely.

The greatest financial genius I ever knew and the richest man I ever knew personally once said to me:

"There is no greater financial genius possible than taking care of what you earn, and there is no better or surer way of taking care of your surplus than to invest it in sound securities paying 5 or 6 per cent. And such securities are easy to find any day of any year. So any man may be a financial genius if he will exercise the simplest common sense."

I protested that it would be said of such a man that he was narrow and selfish.

"Nonsense," the financial genius replied. "I have money invested in railroads, in packing houses and in manufacturing enterprises. Could money be invested more usefully? Yet it is as safe as government bonds and pays a better rate of interest. I invest my own money, but a man without finan-

POINCARE'S MESSAGE.

Nineteen Sixteen Will Be Year of Victory, Says President.

PARIS, Jan. 4.—"Nineteen hundred and sixteen will be our year of victory," says President Poincare in a message to "the officers and soldiers of France," which has been distributed along the whole front.

The message, which is one of great simplicity, expresses the confidence of the entire nation in its defenders.

The letter follows:

"Like you, my noble friends, I have read with emotion in the army bulletin messages addressed to you on the eve of the New Year by the mayors of our large cities. The same language is used by all these French cities, and it is easy to-day to draw from these numerous expressions the unanimous sentiment of the country.

"Everywhere you have seen maintained without effort this sacred union spontaneously established seventeen months ago under the menace of the enemy. Why would not the civil population follow the example of agreement and harmony which you give it? In the trenches and on the battlefields you hardly think of considering your personal opinions.

Not One of Eight Gives Necessary Majority for Local Option.

TORONTO, Jan. 4.—Not one of the eight Ontario cities which yesterday voted on the question of local option decided to go "dry." In the townships and villages the supporters of the measure had a little better success. They were successful in fifteen municipalities, but failed to carry local option in twelve. There are several municipalities still to be heard from, but the result throughout Ontario in brief up to this morning was:

Local option carried in fifteen contests.

Lost in seven municipalities.

Defeated by three-fifths vote in thirteen.

Number of licenses affected forty-seven.

By-law sustained in three.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

"A torpedo struck the ship on the port bow at 1.05 o'clock in the afternoon when about 40 miles south of the east-end of the Island of Crete. No warning was given, nor any attempt made to assist. Within five minutes the ship had sunk. It was impossible to lower the starboard boats owing to the heavy list. Five or six boats were lowered on the portside. I didn't see this myself, as I was washed overboard when the boat capsized.

"The conduct of the passengers and crew was splendid; there was no struggling and no panic. Four boats, after 30 hours at sea, were picked up by a warship."

A despatch to The Times from Cairo says that two boatloads of people were drawn down with the steamer Persia when she sank as there was no time to cut the ropes. Four boats got away, but it was thirty hours before a trawler picked them up. Several ships passed by without assisting the refugees, being afraid, presumably, of decoys. Many passengers were thrown into the water when the vessel heeled over.

OFFENSIVE AT GALLI POLI.

Allied Troops Aided by Battleships

Vigorously Attack the Enemy.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 4, via Amsterdam and London.—There was heavy fighting on Saturday along the Dardanelles front, still held by the Allies. An engagement in which the land and sea forces of the invaders took part, is reported by the War Office, in the following statement:

"Near Seddul Bahr, on the night of Dec. 30-31, there was active bomb fighting. On our right wing and in the centre violent fighting with artillery and bombs lasted until morning.

"On the afternoon of Dec. 31 we exploded two mines on our right wing. The enemy's artillery, assisted by two cruisers, bombarded our trenches in the centre of our front. We replied effectively.

"Our batteries at the Narrows bombarded the landing place at Seddul Bahr and the neighboring camp.

"Our aeroplanes attacked and repulsed a hostile aeroplane, which was making a reconnaissance."

Army Reform in Britain.

LONDON, Jan. 4.—The War Office announces that hereafter commissions as officers will be granted only to men who have completed their course as recruits, and that preference will be given to men who have served with the expeditionary force.

This order, which presumably will apply to all units organized under the compulsory system, is expected to make possible more rapid training of troops, as well as to insure a satisfactory standard of qualification for officers.

Sufficient.

"They have separated."

"Indeed!"

"Yes."

"For what reason?"

"He refused to sew on the buttons that he tore off her dress while trying to fasten it."

As It Is Practiced.

"There is a time when taking others' property isn't stealing."

"What property?"

"An umbrella."

"When?"

"When it is raining."

invested more usefully? Yet it is as safe as government bonds and pays a better rate of interest. I invest my own money, but a man without financial experience may secure safe investments without difficulty. If a man has a bank account his banker will find safe investments for him. Bankers are men of financial experience, and 99 per cent of them are intelligent and honorable. There is no excuse for a busy man losing his savings. Many women, when they come into possession of money, lose it because they invest it in schemes bankers would not trust, or else the women loan their money to men who could not borrow money at a bank. Everything in life is simple and easy if we would only accept experience and be careful of big and sentimental notions. Financial sense is knowing that certain men will promise to do certain things and fail. Therefore when you invest your savings get security. And it is no more trouble to get good security than it is to get bad if you are guided by common sense and experience."

Fat Crystals.

If small quantities of butter, lard and beef fat be separately boiled and slowly cooled for, say, twenty-four hours, the resulting crystals will show very marked differences under the microscope. The normal butter crystal is large and globular. It polarizes brilliantly and shows a well marked St. Andrew's cross. That of lard shows a stellar form, while that of beef fat has a foliated appearance. In course of time, as the butter loses its freshness, the globular crystal degenerates and gradually merges into peculiar rosette-like forms.

Instinct of the Mudfish.

The remarkable instinct which causes the mudfish to roll himself in a ball of mud when the dry season approaches is a wonderful provision of nature, intended solely, it would seem, to prevent the extinction of the species. The most interesting fact about this fish is that it breathes by means of its gills when in its native element and by means of lungs during its voluntary imprisonment in the mud cocoon.

Force of Habit.

"See here, boss, I ordered tripe and beans, with coffee, and the waitress has brought me a lettuce sandwich and a cup of weak tea."

"You must excuse her, sir. All due to absentmindedness. She's a former society girl, and she can't seem to grasp the idea that a quick lunch is not a function."

Presence of Mind.

"That woman over there looks as if she were painted."

"Sir, that is my wife."

"I had not finished my sentence. She looks as if she were painted by Raphael and had just stepped out of the frame."—Exchange.

Risky.

A girl may warble to you that she doesn't like flattery, but don't take a chance on telling her that she looks like a rhinoceros.

PASTOR RUSSELL

Washington, D.C., Dec. 26.—Pastor Russell discoursed here to-day on the text, "Who hath believed our report? and to whom is the Arm of the Lord revealed?"—Isaiah 53:1.

The Pastor showed his audience that his text and context were prophetic of our Lord Jesus Christ, and were fulfilled at the time of His First Advent. The Jews were expecting a glorious and powerful King. Consequently, when our Lord came as "a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief," they were greatly disappointed. While they acknowledged Him to be of the Davidic line, nevertheless they esteemed Him to be from a root that had lost its virility, and from which they could never hope for a sprout of power and glory such as they had anticipated Messiah would possess.

The speaker expressed deep sympathy with the Jewish people in their disappointment and their failure to recognize Jesus of Nazareth as their long-promised Messiah. One would naturally expect, however, that the very ones to receive the Message that Jesus was Messiah, that God had sent His Son into the world, would have been the Jewish high priest and other zealous religionists, the most prominent men in the nation.

The Pharisees were especially the "holiness people" of that day, the speaker declared. Our natural thought would be that they would have been in the right mental attitude, waiting for Messiah to manifest Himself; and that when He came and showed forth the Power that Jehovah was exercising through Him, to heal the sick, raise the dead, etc., they would rejoice. But they were not in that attitude. They were looking for a great general to deliver them from the Roman yoke. Jesus of Nazareth was too humble, too attentive to the poor and to sinners; He associated with the common people. These things neither priest nor Pharisee would do. Therefore they did not care to be known as His followers.

Blinded by Pride and Selfishness.

So Messiah "came unto His own, and His own received Him not. But as many as received Him, to them gave He power [privilege] to become sons of God." (John 1: 11, 12.) These received His report and believed it. He reported that God is Love; that God was now ready to bless the Jewish people, and had sent His Son to give His life as a Ransom for all mankind; and that the Son was calling as many as were appreci-

A TRAGIC RETREAT

When the Afghans Lured the British Into the Jaws of Death.

THE EVACUATION OF KABUL.

Of 16,000 Persons Who Left the City Under Pledge of Safety Only One Man, Except a Few Prisoners Taken, Escaped Massacre.

In this wondrous day of wire and wireless we learn, half across the world, the events of the day almost instantaneously, and the very elements carry abroad the news. It is more than romance; it is miracle, but a miracle that may banish forever from the pages of the future historian and romancer one of the most dramatic figures of the past—the messenger bringing first news from the battlefield.

Long even before Phleddippides of Marathon ran to Athens from the immortal battlefield, cried "Victory!" and fell dead the messenger held a place in myth and chronicle that he has maintained for centuries. Sometimes he is merely the swiftest rider or runner, sometimes a hero of the fight, chosen as an honor to bear glad tidings; sometimes a hard pressed refugee, sometimes even a lone survivor.

Lady Elizabeth Thompson Butler, the distinguished woman painter of wartime scenes, of which "The Roll Call" is most famous, once illustrated in a less known painting one of the most tragic episodes in the history of modern England—the arrival of Dr. William Brydon at Jallalabad, Jan. 13, 1842. Her terrible little picture shows the young Scotch surgeon, dazed, desperate, exhausted, clinging half-conscious to his wearied horse as the walls of the city loom in sight.

He had come from Kabul, through the mountains, in midwinter, one of a retreating army of British and native troops, accompanied by swarms of attendants and camp followers. With them at first were also nine English women, wives of officers, including Florentia, Lady Sale, wife of Sir Robert Sale, the commander at Jallalabad, and his daughter. There were also fourteen children. A long, intricate and hideous series of blunders, treacheries and murders had brought the tremendously outnumbered British in Kabul to the point where evacuation of the city and acceptance of a promised safe conduct to Jallalabad seemed to be hoped for, and the retreat began.

But the Afghans did not keep their word, and soon there were no leaders. Before the march was half over many were slain and conditions were so hopeless that the others yielded to a proposal to surrender the commanding general himself, General Elphinstone, together with the women and children, into the care of the Afghan chief, Akbar Khan, as hostages, but not until the Kurd Kabul was passed.

The gorge of the Kurd Kabul is a five mile ravine between high mountains, so narrow, lofty and grim that in winter the sun scarcely reaches its depths. That January it was deep in

ANIMAL INTELLIGENCE

Cats, Dogs and Monkeys See a Class by Themselves.

Horses are generally given a great deal more intelligence than they actually possess. Scientists show that in wisdom such beings display horses are outclassed by dogs, monkeys and cats.

The horse can be taught to do things just because he is to have any ideas of his own. A human prize pupil, he can cannot think.

So far as intelligence goes logical experiments show practically a dead heat bet dogs and monkeys.

The dog has human more people are apt to assure has human logic. But the certain persons, in sheer brain next to man. He has the intelligence that makes him home in parlor and wild wood him a living anywhere. A argued, can think faster and of himself under more diffusions than any other living cept man.

Monkeys undoubtedly see telligent than they really a they resemble human beings and outward appearance so closely than other animals.

Some scientists maintain though the monkey may be more intelligent than the his intelligence is certainly the human type.

Although he may not his methods of thought are those of a man than are the other animals.

He reported that God is Love; that God was now ready to bless the Jewish people, and had sent His Son to give His life as a Ransom for all mankind; and that the Son was calling as many as were appreciative to become members of His Bride class, heirs of God, joint-heirs with Himself, to fulfil the promise made to Abraham—"In thy Seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed."—Galatians 3:8, 16, 29.

But the majority did not believe His report. They said, "This is not the man to fulfil that Promise made to Father Abraham! When Messiah comes, He will soon deliver us from the Roman yoke." Thus they manifested that they were not in the right condition of heart. They had plenty of pride, selfishness, and self-conceit; but they lacked the qualities that God desired—meekness, humility, teachableness, gentleness, brotherly kindness, love.

Those who received Jesus as Messiah, however, had these essential qualities. The Apostles were men of strong character, but were unlearned. They were of the common people. But they were meek. There is a blessing in being meek; and our Lord's true disciple must cultivate diligently that quality. Meekness and lowliness of heart characterized our Lord also. One might think that He had some excuse for being somewhat autocratic in manner. But not so. There was no pride whatever in His actions; and His Report, His Message, was designed to reach the meek alone. See what a noble band His followers were—great only in the qualities which our Lord approved; namely, loyalty to God, confidence in His promises, a meek looking to Him for guidance.

Rigid Terms of Discipleship.

No one should undertake to be a Christian until he understands what it means. It is a serious proposition; for the Christian is dealing with the Almighty. To be Christ's disciple means the surrender of everything one has. This course of self-abnegation was characteristic of our Lord and His disciples, as well as of those who believed their report.

All such are constituted holy in God's sight because of the imputed merit of our Lord's sacrifice. This is the class to whom the Arm of the Lord is revealed. The arm has long been a symbol of power. The Arm of the Lord means Jehovah's Power, revealed in Christ. God purposes to lift mankind out of degradation, sin, and death, and to restore them to harmony with Himself, through The Christ. This will indeed be a manifestation of Power Divine.

LURE OF THE PEARL

Logg Chances Taken by Fishers For Fresh Water Gems.

ALL ARE BELIEVERS IN LUCK.

A Mussel That Holds the Coveted Prize Looks Just the Same as One That May Be Worthless, and Thousands May Be Opened in Vain.

The pearl fishermen of the Upper White river in Arkansas are the most hopeful of mortals, ever dreaming of picking from curiously shaped shells big pearls of such value as to sweep them into the realms of prosperity at one grand stroke. They are optimists and true gamblers that worship at the throne of the goddess of luck. A thousand shells may not contain as much as a worthless slug. The next one they open may contain a rare gem worth thousands of dollars. They are ready and willing to take the chance. They may come out to the good or they may come out mosquito bitten, full of malaria, with trembling knees.

The pearl fisher of the Upper White is a true sport, as are the buyers. They are willing to take long odds in hope of pulling down a big stake. They are of the same disposition as the city man who gambles on the ponies or of the miner who follows his pick underground, betting against long odds and fate that he will win.

They are optimistic and hopeful, and it is impossible to discourage them. They are believers in luck and as strong in their faith as a Quaker.

Every pearl fisher has his favorite among the pearl bearing mussels. Some like the washboard, a long rough shell. Others like the niggerhead, a small round shell, black and rough. Others cling with inborn faith to the spectacle, a long shell, shaped much like a spectacle case, while others hold to the fantail and mucket. It is only a matter of fancy, however, all are pearl bearing if they have passed through the right conditions that go to make the pearl.

The chance of finding one of these rests with luck and luck alone, for there are some 500 different kinds of fresh water mussels that bear pearls. A large majority of these are to be found in the White river. A mussel with a pearl in it looks just the same as one that has none, and it is simply a matter of opening them to determine which one carries a valuable gem.

The equipment of a White river pearl fisher ranges in value from several hundred dollars down to nothing. Really one can start in with nothing but an old knife or sharp edged instrument with which to open the shells. If a man can get the opening tool he can always find a partner with a gunny sack and that is all that he needs to woo fortune with. He can use the knife on the bank to open the shells with, his partner gathering them from the bed of the river in shallow places, carrying them to him on the bank. You don't have to get permission, either, to go to work. Uncle Sam doesn't charge a cent. Just find a place and get busy. This applies, however,

SONG OF THE SHREW.

It is Pitched So High That Only Sharp Ears Can Hear It.

The high pitched squeaking or whistling of the shrew is a curious sound and frequently acquires quite a song-like character. More often, however, the voice of the shrew is raised in anger, for it is a pugnacious little animal, and the males have fierce combats in the spring of the year. It is a curious fact that many people are unable to hear the shrew's squeaking, not that the sound is not loud enough, but because it is so highly pitched that only sharp ears can record the vibrations.

Though often spoken of as a mouse, the shrew is of an entirely different species, being insectivorous and having sharp teeth on each side of the mouth instead of front teeth, suitable for gnawing, such as are possessed by mice and other rodents.

Though it exists in very great numbers and can very frequently be observed, much remains to be discovered regarding the life of this little creature, an Italian species of which is our smallest known mammal. It is still a mystery why so many dead shrews should be found about the roadsides and pathways. They are fearless little animals, and even when disturbed in their spring journeys from one place to another they do not allow themselves to be put out of their course by a trifle. —London Spectator.

Mamma's Swell Blowout.

"Mamma give a swell dinner the other day," little Jacky was telling Uncle Bob, who had dropped in to pay his sister a short visit.

"What sort of a dinner was it, Jacky?" Uncle Bob asked, looking up admiringly toward Jacky's mother. "One of mamma's real swell course dinners?"

"I dunno," said little Jacky reflectively. "Uncle Bob, they kept bringing it in for over an hour, and there was a little recess in between every time you eat sumpin."—Exchange.

Just What He Wanted.

A fresh sort of chap entered a restaurant the other day, and after he had ordered lunch the waitress, who was well known for her obliging disposition and ready wit, handed him a newspaper so that he might profitably while away the few minutes that would elapse before he was served.

"Thank you, Josephine," he said familiarly, "but I prefer something funny to look at while I am eating."

The waitress looked at him contemptuously, then replied:

"That need occasion you no inconvenience, Percy; there's a looking glass straight in front of you!"—London Mail.

Dogs That Froth at the Mouth.

There is a prevalent impression that "frothing at the mouth" is proof that a dog is "mad." The rabid dog does not "froth." The dog that does usually has some stomach trouble or has been running hard and shows it, just as a hard driven horse does. Remembrance of this fact should prevent a lot of cruelty to sick, lost, tired and frightened dogs. When you see a dog "frothing at the mouth" don't yell for police.

BLACK OPALS.

These Gems Fairly Blaze With Myriad Shades of Color.

Those exquisite gems, black opals, which were practically unknown up till comparatively recently, cost more, carat for carat, than do diamonds even, while experts declare that they are infinitely more beautiful.

And in this connection it may be pointed out that the term "black opal" is distinctly misleading. It was coined to distinguish it from the familiar light opal. As a matter of fact, the black opal is alive with myriad shades of flaming splendor, from brightest tints of green glowing fire to meteoric gold or lavender that in an instant quivers to crimson or slips into molten ruby or sapphire as the angle of light alters.

Black opals are dear, not only because they are so beautiful, but because they are so rare. They are found only at one spot, a comparatively small tract of ground in New South Wales, adjoining the Queensland border.

The field is called Lightning ridge. It is a wild and desolate spot. The nearest towns to it are Walgett and Collarenebri, and it is about 500 miles from Sydney as the crow flies.

Black opal mining is about the biggest gamble extant. There is really nothing to guide the miner in selecting a likely spot. The work is hard. The shafts average forty feet in depth, and all rock has to be "bucketed" to the top. Water is scarce, food almost unobtainable. On the other hand, the prospector who is lucky enough to stumble upon a pocket of fair sized, flawless stones reaps a fortune forthwith.

How We Read.

Oliver Wendell Holmes owned up to his preference for reading in books to reading through them. "When I set out to read through a book," the autocrat wrote, "I always felt that I had a task before me, but when I read in a book it was the page or the paragraph that I wanted, which left its impression and became a part of my intellectual furniture." If we were only franker most of us would confess to being like Holmes in this matter of our reading.—New York Telegram.

Ancient Trades.

Bygone trades have a way of proving on investigation to be only modern industries under another name. A millner, for instance, was only a miller, after all, and a parmenter was nothing more strange than a tailor, though not even the experts are certain why he was so called. A raffman, however, is more interesting. Raff (an ally of the present word rafter) was foreign timber, and a raffman was one who dealt in it.—London Chronicle.

A Plateau In Papua.

The most singular plateau in the world is in the island of Papua. The plateau is 6,000 feet above the sea, and there are summits towering 5,000 feet higher, but owing to the proximity of the equator the great plain is covered with luxuriant vegetation. The climate is a perpetual May, birds sing in every bush, and the only animals made, not born. No two alike. The sum of one city is all to all the parts of another. City, not always a city; some a dust heap. A city is made out of the country filled with it. It consists of houses, debts. No city is complete without a hospital and a franchise. The hospital is used to shelter the sick and to provide its surgeons with working material. The plant enables it to support a city without politicians like a steam laundry without an antidote for farms. Up to now, however, no cure has been the antidote.—Life.

carrying them to him on the bank. You don't have to get permission, either, to go to work. Uncle Sam doesn't charge a cent. Just find a place and get busy. This applies, however, only to some unoccupied mussel bed. If there is some one else at work on a bed when you arrive and he is larger than you, leave him alone. It is his by right and right of discovery, and these are two of the natural laws governing operations among the pearl fishers of the Upper White.

The pearls found on the White river are of good luster and bring fancy prices when free from flaws. They are of many shapes and sizes. The slugs are the most worthless and seldom bring over $1. Baroques, which are slugs, but which have a fine luster, bring up as high as $25 or $30. True pearls, those of a definite shape—ball, oval, pearl shaped, drop or button—bring prices up to as high as $3,000 if they possess the size, color and luster.

Besides these there is the peeler. A peeler is a pearl with a rough exterior that may have a smooth interior when the rough outside covering is peeled away. Peeling is the biggest gamble in the industry. A buyer may pick up a gem for a few dollars, risk his judgment on it and peel out a gem worth several hundred. Again he may ruin it and lose all.

For the past four years, which have been extremely dry ones, pearl fishing has been general, and the mussel beds have been greatly depleted.—Washington Post.

With visitors who come and go
And through the office flit.
He meets a man of dignity
And with a fishy eye
Abruptly says, "Pass in your card
And I may let you by."

Although he does not own the works,
This self important kid,
Or pay the men who make it go,
He acts as though he did.
He shows it in his style of talk,
His manners and his face
Should the occasion but arise
That he could run the place.

No one from presidents on down
To millionaires can balk
The steadfast purpose of this lad,
No odds now found they talk.
No one, though he may own a bank
And in an auto ride,
Is half as big as is the one
Who holds the desk inside.

Or try to call him down,

No more than will a frown.

When you see a dog "frothing at the mouth" don't yell for policemen and guns. Just let the poor beast alone, or try to get it into a quiet corner where it can lie down and rest. Then give it a dish of cold water and keep on letting it alone, and insist that your neighbors do likewise.

Why He Wanted Wings.

Tommy's mother was an invalid, so his Aunt Lavinia looked after him and the house. And she never missed a chance of pointing out a fault or expounding a precept.

"Oh, dear," said Tommy one day after auntie had lectured him for ten minutes, "I wish I had wings!"

"Why, my pet?" asked mother, pleased at this angelic inspiration.

"Oh, I'd fly up in the air with Aunt Lavinia, and I'd fly and fly till I couldn't get any higher."

"Yes, dear," said mother proudly as the little chap paused impressively. "What would you do then?"

"I'd drop Aunt Lavinia!" said Tommy savagely.

Kaffir Banking.

The Kaffirs have a simple method of banking. Before setting out to trade they select one of their number as their banker and put all their money in his bag. When an article is purchased by any of those who are in this combine the price is taken by the banker from the bag, counted several times and then paid to the seller, after which all the bank depositors cry out to the banker in the presence of two witnesses selected. "You owe me so much!" This is then repeated by the witness.

The general accounting comes between the banker and his several depositors when all the purchases have been made, after which all the natives go home.

Dinner.—Roast veal or roast beef and gravy, stewed tomatoes, mashed potatoes, bread, butter, coffee.

Supper.—Bologna sausage, cheese, potato salad, bread, butter, tea.

How to Win Her Heart.

We know a boy who knows girls, all right.

He's only six years old, but he observes things. We heard his mother calling him down for rudeness at play the other day, and our eavesdropping was rewarded with this:

"Billie," called the mother, "I want you to quit teasing that little girl! Aren't you ashamed of yourself?"

"Well, I got to tease somebody, an'—"

"You've got to tease somebody? That's a fine idea, I must say! And so—"

"Yes, an' she wants to be teased. If I quit she'll go play with some other little boy."

The Stuart Penny.

A pamphlet published in 1677, entitled "The Worth of a Penny, or, a Caution to Keep Money, With the Causes of the Scarcity and Misery of the Want Thereof In These Hard and Merciless Times," contains a list of articles obtainable for a penny in the days of Charles II. These include "a dish of coffee to quicken your stomach and refresh your spirits," "a fair cucumber" and "portions of such commodities as nuts, vinegar, grapes, cake, onions and oatmeal." The catalogue of penny-worths obtainable at an apothecary's is a lengthy one and includes "lettuce to make you sleep, mithridate to make you sweat and aniseed, which may save your life in a fainting or swoond."—London Mirror.

The inn known as the "Same Yet," at Prestwich, has a curious history, which Mr. Hackwood relates: "The house originally bore the 'Seven Stars,' but many years ago it became necessary to have its faded sign repainted. THE ELECTIONS

MR. G. F. RUTTAN ELECTED MAYOR FOR 1916.

Polling for municipal elections took place on Monday at the usual polling places. The voting was slow and a rather light vote was polled all over the town, excepting in East Ward, where the vote was nearly all polled.

As the returns began to come in at the town hall it was seen early that Mr. Ruttan would probably be Mayor, and that Mr. Osborne would be elected Reeve.

Mr. Ruttan's majority over Mr. Dickinson is 60; Mr. Osborne's majority over Mr. Waller and Mr. Lowry is 30, though had either Mr. Waller or Mr. Lowry dropped out, a different result would probably have been shown.

For Councillors it was expected that Mr. Weiss, who was not so well known as the other aspirants to office, would receive the least number of votes.

The Council for 1916 will be Mayor Ruttan, and Councillors Graham, Steacy, Denison, Ming, Wilson and Paul.

Following the totalling of the returns, Mr. Ruttan made a short speech promising fulfilment of his pre-election promises to place the finances of the town on a better basis and reduce the rate.

Reeve Osborne thanked the rate-payers for their support and promised his best efforts on behalf of the town.

Messrs. Lowry and Waller both expressed their sentiments on the folly of running a three-cornered fight. Mr. Lowry hoped the new mayor and Reeve would finance the town out of debt. Councillors Graham, Ming and Paul also addressed the electors for a few minutes.

The by-law fixing the assessment of the Napanee Creamery was carried by a very large majority, though fully half the electors did not know anything at all about it, never having seen it advertised.

POOR PULLMAN PORTERS.

Come to Think of It, Their Jobs Are Not Such Easy Ones.

George or Lemuel or Alexander of the Pullman car—whatever the name may be—has no easy job. If you do not believe that go upstairs some hot summer night to the rear bedroom—that little room under the blazing tin roof which you reserve for your relatives—and make up the bed fifteen or twenty times, carefully unmaking it between times and placing the clothes away in a regular position. Let your family nag at you and criticize you during each moment of the job, while somebody plays an obligato on the electric bell and places shoes and leather grips underneath your feet. Imagine the house is bumping and rocking—and keep a smiling face and a courteous tongue throughout all of it!
Or do this on a bitter night in midwinter, and between every two or three makings of the bed in the overheated room slip out of a linen coat and into a fairly thin serge one and go and stand outside the door from three to ten minutes in the snow and cold.
In some ways this is one of the hardest parts of George's job. Racially the negro is peculiarly sensitive to pneumonia and other pulmonary diseases.
Yet the rules of a porter's job require that at stopping stations he must be outside of the car—no matter what the hour or condition of the climate—smiling and ready to say:
"What space you got, guv'nor?"—

DIVORCE IN SCANDINAVIA.

It Is Very Easy to Obtain, and It Does Not Cost Anything.
In Scandinavia divorce by mutual consent is the recognized way. And husband and wife may reach this agreement when neither has violated any marital obligation. The law, you see, does not require them to wait until one has wronged the other. But when they have reached the point where they two know that their real union is ended
they may secure a divorce for the asking. It doesn't cost anything. There is not even a lawyer needed. The process is simple. You notify a magistrate that you are separating. You are not required to go into details. You don't have to spread your marital troubles
on court records and newspaper pages.
One reason is as sufficient here as when you entered into matrimony.
You simply state that you no longer wish to continue the marriage. Then one party to the contract goes away for a year—in Finland it is for only three months. At the end of the period the magistrate hands you the papers that dissolve the marriage as quietly as it was made.
If, as rarely happens, mutual consent
through the refusal of one of the contracting parties cannot be secured the process is a little longer, the probationary period of one year being extended to two. But there is always a way out. Sweden has no less than twelve grounds for divorce. It is a accomplished in as dignified a way as any other partnership might be dissolved.—Mabel Potter Daggett in Pictorial Review.

OLD TIME BATTLES.

They Were Mere Skirmishes When Compared With Modern War.
In the light of modern warfare the old time battles shrink to the proportions of ordinary street brawls. The opposing armies were usually arrayed in lines within hearing of one another.
Frequently the actual combat was pre-luded by an exchange of opprobrious profanity in order to get up the proper sentiment of "holy wrath," which was considered an indispensable element in a soldier's efficiency.
Alexander the Great conquered the orient with only 35,000 men. On a still smaller scale the great battles of Israel appear to have been conducted, as told in the Bible accounts. For instance, in the fight against Gideon the Israelites are said to have suffered severe losses—to wit, thirty men.
The Egyptian army which invaded Palestine and subjugated the whole country counted barely 5,000 soldiers.
Saul confronted his Palestine adversaries with an "army" of 600, which in the course of time was increased to 1,000 after the "militarists" of those days had persuaded the authorities to provide a reserve force, a sort of "landsturm," of 400 warriors brave and bold.
King David's military establishment did not exceed his predecessor's in numbers. According to the first book of Kings, however, King Ahab must have been pretty much of a war lord, judging by the standard of olden times.
In his army were 7,000 soldiers and a constabulary force of 230 men.

SHRAPNEL SHELLS.

Various Types In Use and the Mass of Bullets They Carry.
Most nations are agreed that the three inch shrapnel is the most effective for killing men in modern warfare. The three inch type, which is almost universally used, contains from 210 to 360 half inch lead bullets, bunched together in the front part of the shell. A time fuse, which is made with the accuracy of a watch, is graduated in seconds and is set to explode at a given range as determined by the artillerymen.
The velocity of the shell may be gathered from the fact that it travels
a mile in four seconds and within a quarter of a minute is four miles from the mouth of the gun. At any time during this rapid flight the shell can be made to explode with marvelous precision and deadly effectiveness, driving its bullets in a cone shaped shower down on the heads of the enemy.
A remarkable fact regarding these shells is that the velocity of the bullets when the shell explodes exceeds the velocity of the shell at the time of the explosion by from 250 to 300 feet per second, the bullets of a bursting shell covering a zone about thirty yards wide and 250 yards long.
Shrapnel shells used by different governments at the present time all operate on the same principle, but differ somewhat as to size and the arrangements of the fuse.—Pearson's Weekly.

Patriotic Service and Red Cross Work

Daughters of the Empire.

Appreciative letter of thanks received from the Canadian Red Cross Association, expressing deepest gratitude for a list of hospital supplies in kind dressings, sent some by this committee. In the appeal issued by the Mowat Memorial Hospital before Christmas as to this fine institution, for a noble service to mankind free to any needy persons suffering from the plague, two very welcome donations were sent to Miss Edna for this object, by Mrs. Mrs. Martin. Anyone wishing donations may still send to Richardson.

AD FOR BELGIUM.

received a very urgent appeal from the authorities connected with the Commission for the Relief of the victims of the war in Belgium, to send donations of money or food into flour to make starving Belgians. This asked for Belgian refugees who have been clinging to life and finding themselves under the yoke, which they are bearing with patience and resignation. The appeal is given by unshaken in the ultimate triumph of Right. Owing to the German invasion, the markets formerly for Belgium industry have been closed, and the country has been placed in a state of economic distress, a larger proportion of the industrial mass of our 3,000,000 falls further and further into poverty. The appeal further that a bag of flour costing would make enough bread for a Belgian for a month! wishing to help can send money either to our room, or to our Treasurer, which will be gratefully received.

NAVAL SIGNALING.

It Began in Ancient Days by Raising and Lowering Sails.

The origin of the idea of using flags by day and lanterns by night for signaling in the navy came in to being as far back as the middle ages.

In those ancient days when one thought out a method of raising and lowering sails, the number of times they were raised or lowered indicating the letter that was to be sent. That proved very wearisome work and was superseded in the seventeenth century by the use of balls and cones hoisted in various positions on the masts and booms. At night different colored lanterns were used.

In the following century twelve flags were used, either singly or in combination, and these flags supplied all the signaling that was necessary in fighting, as "Make all sail," "Engage the enemy," "Chase the enemy" or "Anchor."

When the battle of Trafalgar was fought the signals were sent by light, guns and flares and flags, and it was not till after that battle that the system, invented by Sir Home Popham, was used and on which are based the present day methods of signaling.

The system of signaling from ship to ship by semaphore was due to a Frenchman named Chappe in 1794 and adopted in the British navy a few years later.—London Telegraph.

The Scorpion's Wonderful Ear.

I have studied the habits of the scorpion for many years and have often noticed how very sensitive scorpions are to the most delicate sound, musical or otherwise. Under the thorax the scorpion has two comblike appendages, which are the antennae (pectinatae). It is pretty well settled by physiologists and entomologists that in insects the antennae represent the organs of hearing. These delicate structures are easily affected by the vibrations of sound, and there can be no doubt whatever that they are also affected by sounds quite inaudible to the human ear. The slightest vibration of the atmosphere from any cause whatever at once puts in motion the delicate structures which compose the antennae, to which organs insects owe the power of protecting themselves against danger as well as the means of recognizing the approach of one another.—London Spectator.

Dutch Barges in the Thames.

For more than two centuries there have always been some big, broad sterned Dutch boats lying in the Thames river, with baggy trousered Dutchmen smoking on board, quite calmly. It is the reminiscence of a Dutch conquest. Those boats have moored there, with their eels for London ever since William III. gave them the right of traffic. And if there wasn't a Dutch boat for a single second just below London bridge the ancient rights would be lost. But you will always find the calm Dutchman smoking on his "pitch."—Westminster Gazette.

EASY COFFEE GROWING.

The Plant Flourishes With Little or No Attention in Haiti.

Coffee, the great staple product of Haiti, the West Indian island, grows with little attention. It supplies the bulk of the revenues of the government, together with the meager demands of the simple peasantry of the mountains and valleys whose business it is, especially the women and children, to gather it and bring it to the seaport towns on their heads and on the backs of donkeys and horses.

This plant is seen on nearly all the uplands and mountain sides of the country, and as the product is easily portable it is brought to market from far and near in all conceivable quantities, from one or two pounds up to 200 pounds, accordingly as it is carried on the head of a child, the back of a horse or in sacks in ox carts.

Notwithstanding that the coffee plant is scarcely cultivated at all it goes on reproducing itself from fallen berries so successfully that the crop only varies from year to year through extraneous influences like a variation in the rainfall—the lack of or too abundant rain near or during the flowering season.—London Telegraph.

Retold For Choir Singers.

One of the wealthy members of a fashionable church in Boston approached her pastor with the complaint that she was greatly disturbed by one of her neighbors.

"It's positively unbearable," said she. "That man in the pew in front of us destroys all my devotional and pious feelings when he attempts to sing. Couldn't you ask him to change his pew?"

The good pastor was sorely perplexed. After a few moments' reflection he said:

"Well, I naturally would feel a little delicacy on that score, more especially as I would have to give a reason. But I will tell you what I might do." Here the pastor's face became illuminated with a happy thought. "I might ask him to join the choir."

azine.

Held Responsible.

"That dog of yours seems to have human intelligence."

"He ain't that lucky," answered the proprietor of the dog. "If he was to lose his temper and turn himself loose to hurt somebody he wouldn't have a chance in the world of pleading insanity."

Cynical.

The Maid—I found a four leaved clover this morning. There is an old saying that the finder will be married within a year. The Bachelor—Indeed! I was under the impression that the finding of a four leaved clover was an omen of good luck.

Its Class.

"Is this a first class postoffice?" inquired the stranger.

"It's as good as you'll find in these parts," retorted the native, with justifiable local pride.

IT WAS A TOUGH STEAK.

But the Restaurant Man Easily Fixed It When the Kick Came.

It happened in a downtown restaurant. A well dressed—as he always must be to make a good story—young man ordered a steak. The waitress, rather pretty—which qualification she must possess in writing a story of this kind—filled the order, and the young man started in to devour the feast which had been set before him.

The young man had no sooner started in on the steak than he discovered that he had a kick coming, and as the restaurant proprietor passed he stopped him by saying: "I can't eat this steak; entirely too tough. I wish you would see that I get better meats when I come in here."

"Too bad! That steak looks all right. But let me get you another." And the aforesaid proprietor took the steak, the silverware which had been served with it and departed. He soon returned with a steak which looked exactly like the first one. The young man picked up his knife and started at his second order. "Fine!" he said as his knife cut it apart without the least effort. The customer was pleased beyond words, and that he enjoyed the steak was evident, for he left only the plate.

As the reporter passed out he met the proprietor again, and this is what was said:

"That steak was all right, but the girl made a mistake in not giving him a sharper knife. All I did was to put the same steak on another plate and bring him a sharp knife. You have no idea what a difference a sharp knife makes with a steak from a beef of questionable age."

MAKING COFFEE.

There Are a Thousand Ways, but Only One Right Way, Says an Expert.

"The right way of a thousand ways to make coffee," says an expert, "is to take the fresh product and grind it very fine, but not pulverized. Then place it in an earthen jar in proportions of a heaping tablespoonful for every cupful required. After this pour on boiling, bubbling water, let it stand five minutes and then stir with a spoon. After five more minutes pour off carefully, and it will then possess all of the good that should be in coffee. It is then without the bitter which is incidental to boiling and without the metal taste which is incidental to its contact with the pot. The whole secret lies in the water—it must be bubbling, boiling because the oil will not fuse with water until it is bubbling, boiling."

"Here is where the cook most always fails 999 times out of 1,000. When the vapor is first observed coming from the spout of the pot the temperature of the water is about 180 degrees F., while at the bubbling point it should register 212. And always remember that in making coffee it is best always to let the spendthrift deal out the coffee, and in making tea let the miser deal out the tea."

The expert was asked why so many people who write for a living drink bad coffee. He simply replied that the secret in the making was the bubbling in the water.

CABINET MINISTERS PLAY THEIR ROLLS

The new year sees the Cabinet ministers definitely assigned to their respective roles. Premier Borden is the heavy father, Finance Minister White is the leading juvenile, Sir Sam is the man-on-horseback, Sir George Foster is wise old Ulysses with a touch of Nestor and a dash of Cassandra, while the Honourable Bob has what they call a thinking part, which means that he is supposed to say little but to think deeply over what occurred in Manitoba. This is a part that suits his mood and he needs little prompting. Arthur Meighen is understudy to the whole company.

The Premier seems to do his share when he emits a distant rumble in the presence of the Canadian Club of New York or Boston on his way to and from the hot springs in Virginia where he goes to warm his feet. Meanwhile the important announcements fall to Finance Minister White who distributes the sunshine in his heart among the electors. In a cabinet of elderly gentlemen Mr. White passes as young and he gets a young man's work to do. He speaks not only for himself but for all his colleagues who rein silent and act as a background.

The Finance Minister's role is invincible cheerfulness. Keep 'em smiling—that's his cue, and he does it very well indeed. In the seventeen months the Empire has been at war not one doleful word has escaped his lips. According to the Finance Minister this country is getting along as well as could be expected and a good deal better. His message is that Canada has had an unprecedented wheat crop, that the foreign trade conditions are prodigious, the customs returns buoyant, the special war taxes fruitful, borrowings not too difficult, and general prosperity on the upgrade. All of which is a consummation devoutly to be wished and most encouraging if the statements are taken at their face value. The Finance Minister has never been downhearted at any stage of the game, being convinced that the financial precautions which he took at the outbreak of the war, and which were based on the wisdom of the ages sifted through the business intellect of Tom White were all that could be desired. It is true that he set aside the advice of a number of bankers and money kings—but who is running this show anyway, the bankers or Tom White the man chosen of the people? Meanwhile it is a safe guess that the Finance Minister does nothing that will cost the Canadian Bankers' Association a minute's sleep.

The gold standard being for the moment suspended Canada need never lack money so long as the printing presses are in good running order. What's more the United States, overlooking those cruel words about no truck or trade with the Yankees, is more than willing to lend and the people of Canada themselves are always ready to help the Finance Minister out of the hole at five per cent. or better. Wherefore it is Mr. White's privilege to be cheerful and to make no bones of saying so just as it is Sir George Foster's duty to remind the voters that those who play pay the piper.

It was the irony of fate that wished the role of official croaker on Sir George. The Minister of Trade and Commerce had become mellow with advancing age and philosophy. He was looking back at life over his shoulder and was in a position to say, as he did, a plague on both your parties. He could afford to look on while his colleagues gouged each other's eyes out and say "let the little darlings play." That was his attitude—one of genial detachment from political strife. Having attained peace himself he cultivated a serene indulgence toward those who still mingled in the conflict. Far from the madding crowd, a Minister of Trade and Commerce, with nothing to do but travel for his body's health and his soul's comfort, he beamed on this hard world like a beautiful sunset—that is if you can imagine a sunset that talks through its nose and wears chin-whiskers. At all events, there was a benediction in his manner and it suited him well....Whenever anybody started trouble at Ottawa, Sir George took the wings of the morning to the uttermost parts of the earth whence he returned, once the row was over, bearing with him a reciprocity treaty by which Australia trained boomers for our Christmas trees or some useful gift like that. Such was Sir George's lot for three years, sometimes bagman, anon yogi, wrapt in beatitudes. Then the war came and jolted him out of his nirvana.

Somebody had to remind the people of their responsibility. Somebody had to tell them to sit tight and save money and make provision against the taxes which the Borden Government hopes to stave off by domestic loans until the next general election is over. Somebody had to tell them that the worst was yet to come and as it did not behoove the Finance Minister to dash his bright gospel with dark forebodings this sad duty fell to Sir George who was elect-

Foe Evacuates Czernovitz As Russians Seize Heights

LONDON, Can. 4.—A Reuter despatch from Petrograd says that the Teutonic forces are reported to have evacuated Czernowitz (Bukowina.) It adds that a large number of prisoners have been taken, including many Germans.

The Petrograd correspondent of the Havas Agency definitely announces that the Austrians have evacuated Czernowitz, the Russians having seized all the heights dominating the town.

CAPTURED PART OF DEFENCES.

The Russian official communique, which was issued this afternoon, and which confines its statements to brief records of the advances made, says: "Northwest of Czernowitz we occupied a line of trenches, and repulsed by the concentrated fire of our artillery enemy counter-attacks, the enemy sustaining heavy losses."

At the northern end of the line the Russians also made progress, forcing back the enemy. They drove him from the wood between Koshukinovka and Podcherevitchi Station, in the region of Czartorysk, and they crossed a line of wire entanglements, occupied German trenches to the east of Bielavintze, and took by storm a fortified work on the front of the middle Strypa, at the enemy's centre.

ON OFFENSIVE EVERYWHERE.

Everywhere in the Strypa and Volhynian districts of Russia and in east Galicia the Russians are on the offensive, the official communications from both Petrograd and Vienna showing this. Czernowitz, capital of Bukowina, in now the position around which the most important fighting is in progress.

There has been a strong advance by the Russians on this front the Vienna says that the Russian attacks are unsuccessful and that their losses have been appalling, in one sector six miles in width 2300 Russian dead having been counted.

On the lines north of the Pinsk marshes a German attempt to cross the Dwina was defeated, the enemy being thrown back by the Russian fire. Germans clad in white coats who attempted to approach the Russian trenches in the region of the Tsargrad station were also put to flight.

QUICK ENDING OF WAR THOUGHT NOT FAR OFF

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—It is believed in certain well-posted quarters here that some kind of quick ending of the war may be in sight; that, for instance President Wilson continues to exercise the most unusual patience toward the repeated insolence of Austria and Germany, knowing that something is bound to give way any day; that the torpedoing of ships in the Mediterranean is part of a Teutonic play for a fall. The same persons say that the offer of the Canadian Government to raise another quarter of a million of men is more or less inspired by knowledge of an approaching collapse. The report of the illness of the Kaiser, even of a severe operation on him, is also connected up with this alleged condition of af-come and as it did not behoove the Finance Minister to dash his bright gospel with dark forebodings this sad duty fell to Sir George who was elected to do it by the unanimous choice of his comrades in the Cabinet. Sir George's smiling mask did not deceive them. They had seen him at work in council, or rather not at work, and they sensed what he felt at not being Finance Minister. They surmised that he had a fountain of melancholy to draw on and they proceeded to tap it. This is why Sir George is the one appointed to try it on the dog—he can put real emotion into his words. Sir George's job is to feel the people out. He may not like his job, but his colleagues feel that it is good for him not only because it brings him in touch again with human frailty but as a sort of punishment for his previous detachment from party politics. Penance, as it were.

Thus it happens that Sir George is the first to breathe conscription to a people four thousand miles distant from the war. It was a breath, that was all—it did not meet with a popular response, so Sir George ceased breathing in that direction. His latest task is to forecast a probable domestic loan of $300,000,000 for war purposes—a large order, which will find Canada not only ready but willing to take that but perhaps another rich blessing at five per cent. The fact that Sir George is chosen to break it to us gently does not necessarily stamp it as bad news. If we must borrow it is perhaps best that we borrow from ourselves, thus drawing two profits—the five per cent and the self-reliance.

Hundred Thousand Serbs Concentrated in Albania

PARIS, Jan. 4.—According to a Havas despatch from Athens, under date of Jan. 3, the officers of King Peter's suite at Saloniki declare that the Serbian forces concentrated in Albania, not including the Serbian detachments co-operating with the Montenegrin army, number 100,000.

"These forces," adds the despatch, "are almost completely reorganized, and will shortly be amply provided with uniforms, artillery and horses. No decision has yet been reached as to how these forces will be utilized."

inspired by knowledge of an approaching collapse. The report of the illness of the Kaiser, even of a severe operation on him, is also connected up with this alleged condition of affairs. But no one here could be got to take the responsibility of openly endorsing these conjectures. Many of the advices that come to New York by letter and cable are to the effect that the position of the allies improves day by day.

The public opinion of the United States, in the press, still more in conversation, continues to go against the lack of quick and defiant action in the President and the government at Washington. Col. Roosevelt seems to be the centre on which this opinion hostile to Mr. Wilson converges. If there is not a burst-up in Germany, then one is due in Washington.

May Provide Kaiser With Silver Palate

PARIS, Jan. 3.—Press despatches from Switzerland and Italy continue to affirm that the illness of Emperor William is serious. It is stated that he was operated on last Wednesday successfully, but the nature of the operation is not specified.

It is stated that the emperor is suffering from a deep-seated affection of which the cutaneous eruption is but an incidental symptom, and that the malady is complicated by the reappearance of his old throat trouble, which has extended to the mouth. It is even asserted that it will be necessary to provide him with an artificial palate made of silver.

FREE MEDITERRANEAN OF PIRATE CRUISERS

PARIS, Jan. 3.—"It is only by destroying the retreat of the corsairs and the possibility of their receiving supplies and breaking down their information organization that naval banditism can be ended," says The Temps, in discussing the torpedoing of vessels by enemy forces.

"The occupation of Castelorizo is the first step in this direction. All means for clearing the Mediterranean of pirates must be taken without hesitation as to Islands, the international status of which has not been definitely fixed, and measures of surveillance must be imposed.

"The enemy cannot invoke laws which it systematically violates, and neutrals who allow pirates to remain in their waters need not be surprised if we enter to seek and destroy the shipwreckers. Their sovereignty cannot be offended by acts of public salubrity, by which sailors and passengers of all nationals will benefit."

Build Up The Home Town

(The following poem was clipped from a magazine by one of our citizens and has been handed in to us. We pass it on to our readers.)

If you want to live in the kind of a town,
Like the kind of a town you like ;
You needn't slip your clothes in a grip
And start on a long, long hike.
You'll only find what you left behind.
For there's nothing that's really new ;
It's a knock at yourself when you knock your town,
It isn't your town—it's you !

Real towns are not made by men afraid,
Lest somebody else gets ahead.
When everyone works and nobody shirks
You can raise a town from the dead,
And if, while you make your personal stake,
Your neighbor can make one, too,
Your town will be what you want to see,
It isn't your town—it's you !

Persia Founded in Five Minutes only 153 Sur- vivors were Landed

LONDON, Jan. 2.—Unofficial despatches from Cairo state that the British steamship Persia, sunk in the Mediterranean on Thursday, was torpedoed without warning and sank in five minutes. Between 150 and 160 survivors have been landed at Alexandria, Egypt. Robert N. McNeely, American consul at Arden, Arabia, is believed to have been drowned.

Reuter's Cairo correspondent makes the unreserved statement that Mr. McNeely lost his life. Robert Grant of Boston, is reported safe.

Details of the sinking of the Persia came in slowly to-day, but such information as was received made it appear that the number of persons who escaped in the four boats which put off was larger than was feared when the first news was received yesterday.

The Peninsular and Oriental Company which owned the Persia, announced this morning that 153 survivors had arrived at Alexandria.

The survivors comprise the chief officer, second officer, seven engineers, 27 seamen, 63 Lascars and 59 passengers.

A Lloyd's despatch gives the number as 153, made up of 59 passengers, of whom 17 are women, and 94 members of the crew including 59 Lascars.

It is feared, however, that the original estimate that the loss of life will reach nearly 300 will prove to have been well based. The Persia, which was on her way from London to Bombay, is believed to have had about 160 passengers aboard, while the crew, composed almost entirely of Lascars, numbered from 250 to 300, or a total number aboard of from 400 to 450.

NO ATTEMPT TO AID.

The Peninsular and Oriental Steamship Co. to-night received the following telegram from Col. C. C. Bigham, who was among the survivors of the Persia disaster:

"A torpedo struck the ship on the port bow at 1.05 o'clock in the afternoon when about 40 miles south of the east end of the Island of Crete.

CANADIAN NORTHERN ALL THE WAY

1916 OPTIMISM

Nineteen hundred and sixteen does not dawn under skies altogether black. It has already been said that war and social progress were incompatible and on general grounds this is undoubtedly true. In Canada, however, and particularly in Western Canada, war and social reform seem to have come together.

January 1915 in Saskatchewan, for example, saw the liquor traffic still holding its place; 1916 sees the private sale of liquor in that province entirely abolished and only twenty-three Government-owned shops left.

January 1915 in Alberta saw the liquor trade still powerful; January 1916 sees it overwhelmed. It has been voted out of existence by the people and the doors of every bar and shop will close on July 1st of this year and after that date there will also be no club licenses.

January 1915 in Manitoba saw the Roblin Government still entrenched; 1916 sees the Norris Government in power and pledged to the most far-reaching social reforms, including the early submission of a referendum on total prohibition.

During the past year in British Columbia the Liberal party Mr. Brewster has taken on a new lease of life and has also adopted a definite stand in favor of a referendum for total prohibition. It will be interesting to watch what the Bowser Government will do.

East of the Great Lakes the progress has not been quite so spectacular, but nevertheless it has been real. Prince Edward Island already is dry. Nova Scotia is dry with the exception of Halifax. New Brunswick has only a little over one hundred retail licenses and in Quebec more than three-fourths of the parishes are dry and notable victories for temperance have been won during the past year, particularly in Lachine and Three Rivers.

The Ontario situation is improving steadily and the results of Mr. Rowell's campaigns of education, combined with the world-wide opposition to the liquor traffic with the advent of the war have had a strong influence. The year has seen the inauguration of the Central License Board,

EAST INDIAN IDOLS.

Some That Are Guarded and Saluted by British Troops.

In India a British guard of honor presents arms to a stone tiger every day. The tiger is regarded by the natives as a god who drives away all danger and calamity, and once some soldiers, in a spirit of mischief, overthrew the image from its resting place and sent it rolling into the valley below.

So shocked and scandalized were the natives that a revolt seemed imminent, and Lord Combermere quieted the outraged natives by restoring the image to its pedestal and ordering the regiment to salute it in full view of all. Since that time a British troop has kept watch over the tiger idol day by day.

Another Indian idol which is watched over by the British is the god whose name is Kiak Kiak, equivalent to "Lord of Lords," which is supposed to be asleep for 6,000 years and whose awakening will be the end of all things.

Hence the natives of the city of Pegu, in Burma, are terribly afraid that some one will arouse the god, so the British government, to avert trouble, stationed a sentry there to prevent this catastrophe.

Once a year a strange custom is observed in Cairo. A piece of carpet on which, according to tradition, Mahomet once sat and which is the most famous sacred relic of Islam, is carried through the streets, and the khedive and his troops all receive it in review order and salute it as they pass.

The relic is guarded most carefully at ordinary times, and the officer in charge of it each morning must salute it with his sword raised, while the bugler blows three blasts before it.—Exchange.

Persia Disaster.

"A torpedo struck the ship on the port bow at 1.05 o'clock in the afternoon when about 40 miles south of the east end of the Island of Crete. No warning was given, nor any attempt made to assist. Within five minutes the ship had sunk. It was impossible to lower the starboard boats owing to the heavy list. Five or six boats were lowered on the port side. I didn't see this myself as I was overboard when the boat capsized.

"The conduct of the passengers and crew was splendid; there was no struggling and no panic. Four boats, after thirty hours at sea, were picked up by a warship."

CAPTAIN WAS DROWNED.

The survivors include ten military officers and eight persons who are not British subjects.

"The ship was struck amidships on the port side at 9.10 p.m.," says Reuter's correspondent at Cairo. "She had disappeared completely by 1.15."

"Survivors say it was little short of a miracle that anyone was saved. There was no panic. Four boats were launched with the utmost promptitude.

"The captain was drowned. When last seen he was swimming after the liner had plunged beneath the surface."

Both the P. and O. Co. and Reuter's Cairo correspondent say that Mr. Grant has been landed at Alexandria. The steamship company this afternoon had received no news of Mr. McNeely's fate. Edward Rose of Denver left the Persia at Gibraltar, as was reported yesterday.

LORD MONTAGUE'S MISSION.

Lord Montague, who was on the passenger list, was going to India to assume the post of inspector of mechanical transport. He appeared in the list of New Year honors, being given the Order of the Star of India for services in connection with the war.

Export Trade of Germany is Substantially Destroyed

LONDON, Jan. 4.—"Germany's export trade has been substantially destroyed," says a foreign office white paper presented in parliament to-day, outlining the policy adopted to enforce the blockade of Germany. The paper adds:

"German imports also have been greatly reduced, such important staples as cotton, wool and rubber being excluded, and others, like fats, oils and dairy products being obtainable in Germany only at famine prices, while advices reaching his majesty's government show discontent among the population and food riots in some of the larger towns."

Killed by Fear.

Frederick I. of Prussia was killed by fear. His wife was insane, and one day she escaped from her keeper and, dabbling her clothes with blood, rushed upon her husband while he was dozing in his chair. King Frederick imagined her to be the "white lady" whose ghost was believed to invariably appear whenever the death of a member of the royal family was to occur, and he was thrown into a fever and died in six weeks.

ined with the world-wide opposition to the liquor traffic with the advent of the war have had a strong influence. The year has seen the inauguration of the Central License Board, also the significant new movement of the non-partisan Committee of One Hundred, which aims for an Ontario dry by the first of July.

Baths in Finland.

One of the greatest trials a visitor in Finland has to endure is a Finnish bath. The method of procedure is unique. Divested of outer clothing and attired in a light and airy cotton garment, you are slung in a sort of hammock composed of cord above a large receptacle like the boilers in public laundries. This is almost filled with cold water, into which at the right moment is flung a large redhot brick or piece of iron, which, of course, causes an overwhelming rush of steam to ascend and almost choke you. Then when that process has gone on sufficiently long you are shaken out of your hammock, immersed in cold water, and after very drastic treatment you resume your raiment, sadder and wiser than before your novel experience.

The Cocoa Plantation.

A traveler in South America, where the cocoa tree is largely cultivated, speaks of the great care with which the young plants have to be protected from the sun, which if very strong is fatal to them. To secure this protection the planters shield them by banana trees and plantain trees, the broad leaves of which give them the needed shade. And even when they are fully grown they need protection, which is given by trees known as "immortels," or, as the planters call them, "the mother of the cocoa." Thus the whole cocoa plantation has a sort of canopy.

The Member For Calais.

There was a time when Calais was represented in the English parliament. It was in the reign of Henry VIII. that Calais was granted the right to send its representative to Westminster, and the names of some of its members have been preserved. Its last sitting member, for instance, was one Edmund Peyton, alderman of Calais.—London Standard.

In Despair.

"Don't you find it an awful expense to have three marriageable daughters on your hands?"

"Yes, and the worst of it is I'm beginning to think they're not marriageable."

To travel hopefully is better than to arrive, and the true success is to labor.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Takes Things Easy.

"Does any one think your son has a future?" "Yes—the life insurance companies."

A Henpecked Bird.

The male rhea, a feathered inhabitant of South Africa, is very much put upon, for four or five hens combine together and lay their eggs in one nest till the total reaches twenty or more, when the females depart, leaving a male bird to sit on the eggs and attend to the wants of the young birds.

in the Melanesian islands the natives carry on feuds with a more relentless hatred even than the vendettists of Corsica. In these islands Christianity has been made, at least in outward aspect, the religion of the people.

That it really does mean something to the Melanesian is evidenced by the reply I received from an intelligent old chief when I asked him why he did not become a Christian.

"I'm to be," he said, "when I kill the devil who kill my boy five years ago."

So relentlessly are these feuds carried on that it is the custom for a native of wealth with a grievance against another, but who finds it impossible or inexpedient to kill his enemy and secure his head himself, to hire a professional murderer and pay him upon the delivery of the head.

Often in the years that are just gone indiscriminate killing went on with such savage persistence that even during church service "pot shots" were taken at marked worshippers through the doors and windows.

The situation became so acute in one village that the government was petitioned, and the response was the loan to the missionary of a rifle.

The missionary took the hint and armed one of his natives who stood guard outside the church during services.

And so it became the fashion on many of the islands to add a sentry to the church rolls.

How a Coal Fire Protects Itself.

A curious way in which a fire in the heart of a coal pile keeps itself from being put out is noted in a mining journal. Such fires often start in the interior of large piles of coal owing to heat developed by slow oxidation, which is prevented by the size of the pile from escaping into the air. Such fires are difficult to put out owing to the fact that the burning mass turns the coal around it into coke, which is nearly impervious to water. The pile may thus be thoroughly drenched without putting out the fire, which it never really reaches. The only way to deal with the situation is to drive into the pile a sharpened iron pipe long enough to reach the burning coal and then to couple a hose to the upper end and turn on the water.

PENROD

"Hush, hush!" said Mrs. Lora Rewbush, pushing her way into the group. "Remember, we are all little knights and ladies today. Little knights and ladies of the Table Round would not make so much noise. Now, children, we must begin to take our places on the stage. Is everybody here?"

Penrod made his escape under cover of this diversion. He slid behind Mrs. Lora Rewbush and, being near a door, opened it unnoticed and went out quickly, closing it behind him. He found himself in a narrow and vacant hallway which led to a door marked "Janitor's Room."

Burning with outrage, heartsick at the sweet, cold blooded laughter of Marjorie Jones, Penrod rested his elbows upon a window sill and speculated upon the effects of a leap from the second story. One of the reasons he gave it up was his desire to live on Maurice Levy's account; already he was forming educational plans for the Child Sir Galahad.

A stout man in blue overalls passed through the hallway, muttering to himself petulantly. "I reckon they'll find that hall hot enough now!" he said, conveying to Penrod an impression that some too feminine women had sent him upon an unreasonable errand to the furnace. He went into the janitor's room and, emerging a moment later minus the overalls, passed Penrod again with a bass rumble—"Dern 'em!" It seemed he said—and made a gloomy exit by the door at the upper end of the hallway.

The conglomerate and delicate rustle of a large, mannerly audience was heard as the janitor opened and closed the door, and stage fright seized the boy! The orchestra began an overture, and at that Penrod, trembling violently, tipped down the hall into the janitor's room. It was a cul-de-sac; there was no outlet save by the way he had come.

Despairingly he doffed his mantle and looked down upon himself for a last sickening assurance that the stockings were as obviously and disgracefully Margaret's as they had seemed in the mirror at home. For a moment he was encouraged; perhaps he was no worse than some of the other boys. Then he noticed that a safety pin had opened;

bush had come out into the hallway.

And now in this extremity, when all seemed lost indeed, particularly including honor, the dilating eye of the outlaw fell upon the blue overalls which the janitor had left hanging upon a peg.

Inspiration and action were almost simultaneous.

CHAPTER III.

The Pageant of the Table Round.

PENROD! Mrs. Lora Rewbush stood in the doorway, indignantly gazing upon a Child Sir Lancelot mantled to the heels.

"Do you know that you have kept an audience of 500 people waiting for ten minutes?" She also detained the 500 while she spoke further.

"Well," said Penrod contentedly, as he followed her toward the buzzing stage, "I was just sitting there thinking."

Two minutes later the curtain rose on a medieval castle hall richly done in the new stage craft made in Germany and consisting of pink and blue cheesecloth. The Child King Arthur and the Child Queen Guinevere were disclosed upon thrones, with the Child Elaine and many other celebrities in attendance, while about fifteen Child Knights were seated at a dining room Table Round, which was covered with a large oriental rug, and displayed (for the knights' refreshment) a banquet service of silver loving cups and trophies, borrowed from the Country club and some local automobile manufacturers.

In addition to this splendor, potted plants and palms have seldom been more lavishly used in any castle on the stage or off. The footlights were aided by a "spot-light" from the rear of the hall, and the children were revealed in a blaze of glory.

A hushed, multitudinous "O-oh" of admiration came from the decorous

It was Penrod's turn. He stepped back from his chair, the table between him and the audience, and began in a high, breathless monotone:

"I hight Sir Lancelot du Lake, the Child, Gentul-hearted, meek and mild. What though I'm but a littul child, Gentul-hearted, meek and mild, I do my share, though, but—though but!"

Penrod paused and gulped. The voice of Mrs. Lora Rewbush was heard from the wings, prompting irritably, and the Child Sir Lancelot repeated:

"I do my share, though, but—though but a tot."

I pray you knight Sir Lancelot!"

This also met the royal favor, and Penrod was bidden to join Sir Galahad at the throne. As he crossed the stage Mrs. Schofield whispered to Margaret:

"That boy! He's unpinned his mantle and fixed it to cover his whole costume. After we worked so hard to make it becoming!"

"Never mind. He'll have to take the cape off in a minute," returned Margaret. She leaned forward suddenly, narrowing her eyes to see the better. "What is that thing hanging about his left ankle?" she whispered uneasily. "How queer! He must have got tangled in something."

"Where?" asked Mrs. Schofield in alarm.

"His left foot. It makes him stumble. Don't you see? It looks—it looks like an elephant's foot!"

The Child Sir Lancelot and the Child Sir Galahad clasped hands before their child king. Penrod was conscious of a great uplift; in a moment he would have to throw aside his mantle, but even so he was protected and sheltered in the human garment of a man. His stage fright had passed, for the audience was but an indistinguishable blur of darkness beyond the dazzling lights. His most repulsive speech (that in which he proclaimed himself a "tot") was over and done with, and now at last the small, moist hand of the Child Sir Galahad lay within his own. Craftily his brown fingers stole from Maurice's palm to the wrist. The two boys declaimed in concert:

"We are two chuldrun of the Tabul Round
Strewing kindness all around.
With love and good deeds striving ever for the best."

May our littul efforts e'er be blest.
Two littul hearts we offer. See,
United in love, faith, hope and char—Ow!"

The conclusion of the duet was marked. The Child Sir Galahad suddenly stiffened and, uttering an irrepressible shriek of anguish, gave a brief exhibition of the contortionist's art. ("He's twistin' my wrist! Dern you, leggo!")

The voice of Mrs. Lora Rewbush was again heard from the wings. It sounded bloodthirsty. Penrod released his victim, and the Child King Arthur, somewhat disconcerted, extended his scepter and, with the assistance of the enraged prompter, said:

"Sweet child friends of the Tabul Round,
In brotherly love and kindness abound;
Sir Lancelot, you have spoken well,
Sir Galahad, too, as clear as bell.
So now pray doff your mantles gay,
You shall be knighted this very day."

And Penrod doffed his mantle. Simultaneously a thick and vasty gasp came from the audience, as from 500 bathers in a wholly unexpected surf. This gasp was punctuated irregularly over the auditorium by imperfectly subdued screams both of dismay and incredulous joy and by two dismal and as obviously and disgracefully Margaret's as they had seemed in the mirror at home. For a moment he was encouraged; perhaps he was no worse than some of the other boys. Then he noticed that a safety pin had opened; one of those connecting the stockings with his trunks. He sat down to fasten it, and his eye fell for the first time with particular attention upon the trunks. Until this instant he had been preoccupied with the stockings. Slowly recognition dawned in his eyes.

The Schofields' house stood on a corner at the intersection of two main traveled streets, the fence was low and the publicity obtained by the washable portion of the family apparel on Mondays had often been painful to Penrod, for boys have a peculiar sensitiveness in these matters. A plain, matter of fact washerwoman, employed by Mrs. Schofield, never left anything to the imagination of the passerby, and of all her calm display the scarlet flaunting of his father's winter wear had most abashed Penrod. One day Marjorie Jones, all gold and starch, had passed when the dreadful things were on the line; Penrod had hidden himself, shuddering. The whole town, he was convinced, knew these garments intimately and derisively.

And now, as he sat in the janitor's chair, the horrible and paralyzing recognition came. He had not an instant's doubt that every fellow actor, as well as every soul in the audience, would recognize what his mother and sister had put upon him. For as the awful truth became plain to himself it seemed blazoned to the world, and far, far louder than the stockings, the trunks did fairly bellow the grisly secret: whose they were and what they were.

Most people have suffered in a dream the experience of finding themselves very inadequately clad in the midst of a crowd of well dressed people, and such dreamers' sensations are comparable to Penrod's, though faintly, because Penrod was awake and in much too full possession of the most active capacities for anguish.

A human male whose dress has been damaged, or reveals some vital lack, suffers from a hideous and shameful loneliness which makes every second absolutely unbearable until he is again as others of his sex and species, and there is no act or sin whatever too desperate for him in his struggle to attain that condition. Also, there is absolutely no embarrassment possible to a woman which is comparable to that of a man under corresponding circumstances, and in this a boy is a man. Gazing upon the ghastly trunks, the stricken Penrod felt that he was a degree worse than nude, and a great horror of himself filled his soul.

"Penrod Schofield!"

The door into the hallway opened, and a voice demanded him. He could not be seen from the hallway, but the hue and cry was up, and he knew he must be taken. It was only a question of seconds. He huddled in his chair.

"Penrod Schofield!" cried Mrs. Lora Rewbush angrily.

The distracted boy rose, and as he did so a long pin sank deep into his back. He extracted it frenziedly, which brought to his ears a protracted and sonorous ripping, too easily located by a final gesture of horror.

"Penrod Schofield!" Mrs. Lora Rew-

and delighted audience. Then the children sang feebly:

"Children of the Tabul Round, Litt'l knights and ladies we,
Let our voy-siz all resound
Faith and hope and charitee!"

The Child King Arthur rose, extended his scepter with the decisive gesture of a semaphore and spoke:

"Each litt'l knight and lady born
Has noble deeds to perform
In three child-world of shivullree,
No matter how small his share may be.
Let each advance and tell in turn
What claim has each to knighthood earn."

The Child Sir Mordred, the villain of this piece, rose in his place at the Table Round and piped the only lines ever written by Mrs. Lora Rewbush which Penrod Schofield could have pronounced without loathing. George Bassett, a really angelic boy, had been selected for the role of Mordred. His perfect conduct had earned for him the sardonic sobriquet "The Little Gentleman" among his boy acquaintances. (Naturally he had no friends.) Hence the other boys supposed that he had been selected for the wicked Mordred as a reward of virtue. He declaimed serenely:

"I light Sir Mordred the Child, and I teach Lessons of selfishest evil, and reach Out into darkness. Thoughtless, unkind,
And ruthless is Mordred and unrefined."

The Child Mordred was properly rebuked and denied the accolade, though, like the others, he seemed to have assumed the title already. He made a plotter's exit, whereupon Maurice Levy rose, bowed, announced that he lighted the Child Sir Galahad and continued with perfect sang froid:

"I am the purest of the pure,
I have but kindest thoughts each day.
I give my riches to the poor
And follow in the Master's way."

This elicited tokens of approval from the Child King Arthur, and he bade Maurice "stand forth" and come near the throne, a command obeyed with the easy grace of conscious merit.

gasp came from the audience, as from 500 bathers in a wholly unexpected surf. This gasp was punctuated irregularly over the auditorium by imperfectly subdued screams both of dismay and incredulous joy and by two dismal shrieks. Altogether it was an extraordinary sound, a sound never to be forgotten by any one who heard it. It was almost as unforgettable as the sight which caused it, the word "sight" being here used in its vernacular sense, for Penrod, standing unmantled and revealed in all the medieval and artistic glory of the janitor's blue overalls, falls within its meaning.

The janitor was a heavy man, and his overalls upon Penrod were merely oceanic. The boy was at once swaddled and lost within their blue gulfs and vast saggings, and the left leg, too hastily rolled up, had descended with a distinctively elephantine effect, as Margaret had observed. Certainly the Child Sir Lancelot was at least a sight.

It is probable that a great many in that hall must have had even then a consciousness that they were looking on at history in the making. A supreme act is recognizable at sight; it bears the birthmark of immortality. But Penrod, that marvelous boy, had begun to declaim, even with the gesture of flinging off his mantle for the accolade:

"I first, the Child Sir Lancelot du Lake,
Will volunteer to knighthood take.
And kneeling here before your throne
I vow to—"

He finished his speech unheard. The audience had recovered breath, but had lost self control, and there ensued something later described by a participant as a sort of cultured riot.

The actors in the "pageant" were not so dumfounded by Penrod's costume as might have been expected. A few precocious geniuses perceived that the overalls were the Child Lancelot's own comment on maternal intentions, and these were profoundly impressed. They regarded him with the grisly admiration of young and ambitious criminals for a jail mate about to be distinguished by hanging. But most of the children simply took it to be the case (a little strange, but startling) that Penrod's mother had dressed him like that—which is pathetic. They tried to go on with the "pageant."

They made a brief, manful effort. But the irrepressible outbursts from the audience bewildered them. Every time Sir Lancelot du Lake the Child opened his mouth the great, shadowy house fell into an uproar and the children into confusion. Strong women and brave girls in the audience went out into the lobby, shrieking and clinging to one another. Others remained, rocking in their seats, helpless and spent. The neighborhood of Mrs. Schofield and Margaret became tactfully a desert. Friends of the author went behind the scenes and encountered a hitherto unknown phase of Mrs. Lora Rewbush. They said afterward that she hardly seemed to know what she was doing. She begged to be left alone somewhere with Penrod Schofield, for just a little while.

They led her away.

Penrod acquired a dime by and antique process which ut doubt sometimes practicboys of Babylon. knowing the profession of a clerk when he grew up.

Emerging, satiated, from the theater, a public timepiece before a jeweler's shop confronted him with an unexpected dial and imminent perplexities. How was he to explain at home these hours of dalliance? There was a steadfast rule that he return direct from Sunday school, and Sunday rules were important because on that day there was his father, always at home and at hand, perilously ready for action. One of the hardest conditions of boyhood is the almost continuous strain put upon the powers of invention by the constant and harassing necessity for explanations of every natural act.

Proceeding homeward through the deepening twilight as rapidly as possible at a gait half skip and half canter, Penrod made up his mind in what manner he would account for his long delay and as he drew nearer rehearsed in words the opening passage of his defense.

"Now, see here," he determined to begin. "I do not wish to be blamed for things I couldn't help nor any other boy. I was going along the street by a cottage and a lady put her head out of the window and said her husband was drunk and whipping her and her little girl, and she asked me wouldn't I come in and help hold him. So I went in and tried to get hold of this drunken lady's husband where he was whipping their baby daughter, but he wouldn't pay any attention, and I told her I ought to be getting home, but she kep' on askin' me to stay!"

At this point he reached the corner of his own yard, where a coincidence not only checked the rehearsal of his eloquence but happily obviated all occasion for it. A cab from the station drew up in front of the gate, and there descended a troubled lady in black and a fragile little girl about three. Mrs. Schofield rushed from the house and enfolded both in hospitable arms.

They were Penrod's Aunt Clara and cousin, also Clara, from Dayton, Ill. and in the flurry of their arrival everybody forgot to put Penrod to the question. It is doubtful, however, if he felt any relief; there may have been even a slight, unconscious disappointment, not altogether dissimilar to that of an actor deprived of a good part.

In the course of some really necessary preparations for dinner he stepped from the bathroom into the pink and white bedchamber of his sister and addressed her rather thickly through a towel.

"When'd mamma find out Aunt Clara and Cousin Clara were coming?"

"Not till she saw them from the window. She just happened to look out as they drove up. Aunt Clara telegraphed this morning, but it wasn't delivered."

"How long they goin' to stay?"

"I don't know."

Penrod ceased to rub his shining face and thoughtfully tossed the towel through the bathroom door. "Uncle John won't try to make 'em come back home, I guess, will he?" (Uncle John was Aunt Clara's husband, a successful manufacturer of stoves, and his lifelong regret was that he had not entered the Baptist ministry.) "He'll let 'em stay here quietly, won't he?"

"What are you talking about?" demanded Margaret, turning from her mirror. "Uncle John sent them here. Why shouldn't he let them stay?"

ed them off over here, though he thinks it's wicked to travel on Sunday. And Aunt Clara was worried when she got here because they'd forgotten to check her trunk, and it will have to be sent by express. Now, what in the name of common sense put it into your head that Uncle John had taken to?"

"Oh, nothing!" He turned lifelessly away and went downstairs, a newborn hope dying in his bosom. Life seems so needlessly dull sometimes.

CHAPTER V.

School.

NEXT morning, when he had once more resumed the dreadful burden of education, it seemed infinitely duller. And yet what pleasanter sight is there than a schoolroom well filled with children of those sprouting years just before the teens? The casual visitor, gazing from the teacher's platform upon these busy little heads, needs only a blunted memory to experience the most agreeable and exhilarating sensations. Still, for the greater part the children are unconscious of the happiness of their condition, for nothing is more pathetically true than that we "never know when we are well off." The boys in a public school are less aware of their happy state than are the girls, and of all the boys in his room probably Penrod himself had the least appreciation of his felicity.

He sat staring at an open page of a textbook, but not studying, not even reading, not even thinking. Nor was he lost in a reverie. His mind's eye was shut, as his physical eye might well have been, for the optic nerve, flaccid with ennui, conveyed nothing whatever of the printed page upon which the orb of vision was partially focused. Penrod was doing something very unusual and rare, something almost never accomplished except by colored people or by a boy in school on a spring day—he was doing really nothing at all. He was merely a state of being.

From the street a sound stole in through the open window, and abhorring nature began to fill the vacuum called Penrod Schofield, for the sound was the spring song of a mouth organ coming down the sidewalk. The windows were intentionally above the lev-

SWEET CLOVER USEFUL CROP.

Serves Many Purposes and Is Gaining in Favor in Many Sections.

There are few plants which will put waste land or run down farms into proper condition for producing crops as quickly as sweet clover. On this account sweet clover, which is so common along roadsides and in waste places in many parts of the country, is rapidly gaining in favor as a cultivated crop.

The root development of sweet clover is such that large quantities of vegetable matter are added to the soil when a field of it is plowed. By turning under a crop of sweet clover when the plants are one to two feet high or only the stubble marked gains are obtained in the following crops. Sweet clover is a very good winter cover crop and especially so on rolling land, since it prevents the soil from gully and washing. It takes up large quantities of available plant food from the surface and sub-surface soils, some of which would probably leach out of these soils during the winter. This plant food is returned to the soil when the roots decay.

As a feed for all classes of live stock sweet clover hay is rapidly coming into favor, especially in

"It costs us from fifty to five cents a box more, but what we want," he said, "say, three boxes of '88' and I know there will be a red and sixty apples fit for. If I were to take Ontario the other hand, I would have three barrels at least to get number of uniform apples, the larger or smaller could for pies and sauce, but not as a result there would be loss. You cannot give a large apple and another a small one and charge the same price, can you?"

One man claimed that Washington was larger than our own, people as a rule preferred even more than quality. stands handled Washington chiefly on account of its appearance, the brilliant color and large size attracting many buyers.

Several points were made the different classes of dealers. Each of them preferred flavor of the Ontario apples, and knew that their customers would also. If they could get Ontario apples of the same quality as those from the States they many cases be glad to use few places where color is considered it is declared that fruit will never do. British Columbia can in that case supply demand. This year apples from the Province came on the local market. They were fully equal in color and superior in flavor to American fruit.

C. H. Barrington, representative of the Okanagan United Fruit Limited, of British Columbia, said that they were only competing with the foreign apples on the markets.

"Just now," said Mr. Barrington, "till the Ontario fruit-growers properly organized we will not compete successfully with them when once they go in in earnest will only supply the demand for people who want something novel and different."

CONVERTING NONBELIEVERS.

Because our neighbors look over the fence and smile or tell it about the community in a quiet way it is hard to be the first one to put on rock phosphate, lime, start some alfalfa, spray the orchard or any of the new ideas in farming, and the good neighbor thinks he has that smile coming to him. We see it in every neighborhood where there is a man trying out some of the new ideas, and we see it especially in the farm advisory counties. Watch and see if those nonbelievers have put ten minutes' study on the question before they gave the whisper about you. All are looking for the true criticism that comes from study, but the other kind isn't worth bothering about. But uses study on the question before they gave the whisper about you. All are looking for the true criticism that comes from study, but the other kind isn't worth bothering about. But one thing is found true by the men who are constantly visiting places where these things can be heard that makes us feel good. A large per cent of the men who give that wink at the progressive men are susceptible to a change, and many little stories of how one of these men is willing to sit in the front row at the meetings and ask questions proves that point.

PACKING SILAGE.

Should Be Tramped Sufficiently to Exclude the Air.

Perhaps the most important operation in filling a silo is getting the silage properly packed. More silage is spoiled by improper packing than by any other cause controlled by the farmer. When the silage is not tramped sufficiently to exclude the air, spoiled silage results. It is known, too, that the more the silage is tramped in the filling process the less it settles afterward. When the silage settles in the silo it tends to draw away from the wall, thus leaving an air space, which results in spoiled silage. The amount of tramping necessary depends upon the rate of filling. When a small outfit is used over several days the slow filling gives more time for the silage to be tramped, and the silage settles from day to day. With a large outfit, however, the silage should be well tramped, as it goes in more rapidly, and if not well tramped will settle several feet after the silo is filled. The capacity of the silo, unless refilled, will thus be reduced, and a large amount of spoiled silage may result. With a small cutter two men in the silo are perhaps sufficient, one to carry the distributor and the other to do the tramping. With larger outfits two or three men in addition to the men carrying the distributor are needed. If convenient the men may be changed from the silo to the field and the monotony of the work be relieved. In case of any short delay in filling the entire force can be used in tramping the silage.

An important factor in packing silage is the manner of distributing it in the silo. The most common method is to build the silage about two feet high around the walls and tramp this well; then fill up the centre and tramp it equally, and then again build up around the walls. By this means the silage will settle without pulling away from the wall. At the top the silage can be rounded off by being made higher in the centre and within a few days will settle to nearly level. Tramping is more important in the upper half and top of the silo because this silage will have less weight on it to force it down.

Concentrated Sun Rays.

Archimedes once arranged a number of mirrors so as to bring the rays of the sun to a point called a focus, which means a hearth. The heat thus gathered together from the sunshine is said to have been sufficient to set fire to the Roman ships, which were besieging the harbor of Syracuse.

into strips 1 by 3 inches. Whatever material is used for the uprights, they should be twelve feet long.

Every pair of poles has narrow strips four feet long nailed to them six inches apart to form a sort of ladder. If good mason's laths can be had these may be used. They are three feet ten inches long, and if free from knots will be strong enough. These racks are then set upon the floor of the house three feet ten inches apart. Other laths are laid across the strips, upon which the brush is to be placed to the thickness of approximately two inches.

TIMELY GARDEN HINTS.

Before cold weather gets hold of the ground thoroughly weed the strawberry patch.

Never put fertilizer on your plants while they are wet with rain.

A useful and ornamental plant is parsley. It may be easily kept for use all winter.

Once settled indoors, the house plants must be sure of regular attention if they are to be a success.

Any time during the winter when the canes are not frozen, prune and tie up grape and ornamental climbers. This work should not be delayed until growth starts, as it will then injure the vine.

The plow is, after all, the best weed killer. Use it promptly on all garden patches after the crops have been removed. It means a clean bed next year.

Pumpkins will keep well in a corner of the cellar near a furnace. If there is no furnace in the cellar a better place for them is a warm closet near the fire.

Apples for the Pigs.

In parts of Devon farmers have decided not to harvest their cider apples, of which there is a big crop, and are turning their pigs into the orchards to eat the fruit that has already fallen. It is said that with labor so short the sale of the apples at the current price of £1 a ton is unprofitable.—English exchange.

Plow the Orchard.

Plow the orchard now. It is safe, will save time in the spring, and will destroy what would otherwise be a harbor for mice.

Stick to Stock.

Hog and cattle prices just now emphasize the value of sticking to live stock.

Kitchener's Routine.

Lord Kitchener is never called in the morning; he awakes regularly himself at six-thirty, when he has his private letters and a cup of tea brought to him. He rises at seven o'clock, and retires, if his duties permit, at midnight.

SWEET CLOVER GROWING IN SAND.

places where other types of hay will not grow successfully. Ordinarily some trouble is experienced in getting stock to eat sweet clover at first, but after they become accustomed to the bitter taste no further difficulty is encountered. The hay contains a high percentage of digestible protein. As pasturage sweet clover is excellent for horses, sheep, cattle, and hogs. Stock will readily create an appetite for sweet clover if pastured on it early in the spring before other green feed has started to grow. A sufficient number of animals should be kept in a sweet clover pasture to keep it grazed rather closely. Stock pastured upon sweet clover make gains which compare very favorably with those obtained from either alfalfa or red clover. Sweet clover resembles alfalfa when young, but can be readily distinguished from it by its bitter taste, its smooth, shiny leaves, and its racemes or flowers. It is adapted to rotations similar to those in which red clover is used and will undoubtedly prove valuable as a substitute when red clover can no longer be grown successfully.

A good stand may be obtained by seeding either early in the spring or about the middle of August. Late summer or early fall seeding has been successful, although it is not to be recommended where sweet clover is grown for improvement of poor soils, since the root system does not develop as much as when the plants make two full years' growth. For this reason it is recommended, so far as possible, that it be seeded in the late winter or spring.

Where sweet clover is not common it is important that the soil be inoculated at seeding time. Both the soil transfer and pure culture methods have proved successful. Soil from a field where sweet clover, bur clover, yellow trefoil, or alfalfa grows abundantly will serve for inoculation if mixed pound for pound with sweet clover seed. This mixture should be sown after sunset or on a cloudy day and immediately harrowed in.

WHAT IS THE MATTER?

Why Do Foreign Apples Sell Better on Ontario Market?

Ontario produces about 75 per cent. of all the apples grown in the Dominion. The range of varieties includes the fruit maturing from the middle of August till late in October. The color and size are good, their keeping and shipping quality excellent, and the flavor is unsurpassed. Despite these facts, from one-half to three-quarters of a million dollars' worth of United States apples is shipped into this country every year. The fruit is grown in Washington State, nearly three thousand miles west of Toronto. The apples return a profit to the growers, after paying heavy transportation charges, meeting a specific duty of thirteen and a half cents per box plus a war tax of seven and a half per cent. of the total value, and yet they are sold in a city less than twenty miles from some of the finest orchards in the world. The fruit is used by the higher class restaurants and hotels, on the dining cars, for decorating lunch counters, and sold by the small fruit stall. The trade has been growing steadily from year to year, says Gordon Furrow.

Why do these places prefer the American fruit to our own? Without an exception they will tell you that the Ontario fruit has the best flavor, the best keeping qualities, and it may be that you have a number of soiled packs on hand. If so, why not clean them? A penny saved, you know. Here is a very reliable formula.

 Bring a quart of water, to which have been added twenty grams of soap bars, to a boil. Continue ebullition for a few minutes; then add fifteen grams each of borax and starch which have been mixed with a little water. Boil mixture for about ten minutes; then cool and filter and put into corked bottle. In using it rub the surfaces of the cards lightly with a sponge saturated with the mixture, drying them instantly with an old absorbent piece of linen.

Economy is wealth, they say. Then why not make a good and inexpensive household vinegar at this time? Cut apple and pear peelings and put them into a jar; pour water over them and also a little vinegar, sour beer or wine.
 After stirring well cover with a linen cloth and leave in a warm room. In two or three weeks the vinegar will be ready for use.

Nourish Your Nerves.

People of a nervous disposition need a nourishing, nerve building diet. Eggs served in various ways, milk, cereals, etc., should be a standard part of the diet. Be careful of a lavish use of tomatoes or red beets. Supply your table with quantities of fruit and fresh vegetables and serve bran bread or biscuits frequently. Should you have a tendency to obesity be careful to avoid an excess of starch and sweets.
 Consult your physician about any especial tendency that you know your family or any member of it to possess and, guided by his advice, eliminate such foods as might be harmful. In families where there is no special indisposition or hereditary tendency to be considered let common sense guide you, read up on dietetics and keep your table
 free from unhealthful combinations and indigestible foods. You will find this study an interesting one, but beware of fads. A diet must be varied to be wholesome, and it is better to use spices and condiments in moderation than to let your table lack flavor
 from overzeal in leaving out everything that is not pre-eminently wholesome.

Too many people who run well do most of their running when they are off the track.

People who are out looking for trouble should first obtain a photograph of it lest they get a sad shock of surprise.

Blessed are those who get little, for they won't have much to worry over.

Helping others is a fine thing, but it has its drawbacks, too, because if addicted to it, others get the idea that you never need any yourself or have any desire to do anything save serve others.

If a favor is to be asked of a man with a grouch, get your enemy appointed on the committee to do the asking.

The man who frankly says he made a mistake did not make an irreparable one.

Don't die for anybody, because no one would be able to make use of you while in that condition.

REAL DISTINCTION.

slan lines, and around the bottom of the full peplum runs a band of muskrat fur pointed at the top. Deep collar and cuffs of this same fur give the rich finish, and the velvet hat is set off with small ostrich feathers.

A Thanksgiving Cue.

Candle-shades are made for Thank-giving decoration by painting fruit designs on paper and cutting away the spaces between the patterns. Designs in which the stems and leaves form a trelliswork should be used, and the more cutting out the scheme admits of the better. The frame chosen is the simple style in which there are two circles, a smaller above a larger, and in which the shade has a flat surface and sloping sides. The wire is then covered with thin silk gathered to both edges, the color being chosen to contrast prettily or to harmonize with the fruit scheme. Lattice designs are good, and plums, peaches, oranges and the grapes are painted to trail all over latticework. Flowers, such as pansies, wistaria, peonies, roses and chrysanthemums, are painted in brilliant and natural colorings, and the stems are twined in and out to form the intersections.

A pretty idea is to match the shade decoration in the flowers of the centerpiece, using glass candlesticks and setting the center one into a great mass of the flowers, which are so arranged as to bank around it without vase or bowl being visible. Chrysanthemums in red and white and yellow shades make a lovely combination, in which the lining can be of the lighter color and the most of the outer decoration in the dark.

The painting is done with water colors, but when this is too laborious a process wall paper can be used and can be found in many latticed patterns which are even more effective than the water colors.

Sun Baths.

Prolonged exposure of the human body to bright sunlight for those not accustomed to its rays is dangerous.

The damage is more than the sunburn which results, for physicians have shown that headache and symptoms of meningitis have developed after youths under their observation have been sitting or lying several hours in the sunlight with unprotected heads.

Sun baths are most popular with anemic and nervous city indoor workers, but too much sun is apt to harm
 the nerve system of nervous people.

Instead of being benefited by long exposure to the sun the nervous are rendered more nervous. No one welcomes more than the physician the "back to nature" tendency of recent years, but they are now being careful to warn against excesses and abuses
 in the "enjoyment of nature."

king of Montenegro, and since the war began, a year ago last August, his country has been at war. Montenegro is one of the smallest kingdoms in Europe and has a population of about 500,000. The king's name is Nicholas.
 So you see the little princess lives in troublous times, many of her near relatives being soldiers.

"Up Jenkins."

Up Jenkins is an amusing game, and it requires at least three on each side of the table. Captains are chosen for each side. The side that has the coin (a quarter is preferable) must pass it along its side, or pretend to pass it until the opposing captain calls "Up Jenkins," and those on the side with the coin holds their hands up high, tightly closed. The captain then calls "Hands down," and all bring their hands upon the table, palms downward.

The captain looks at the hands before him and orders each hand in turn off the table that he thinks has not the coin under it. If the coin is discovered to be in the hand last off the table
 the coin goes to the side of the captain who guessed correctly, but if he guesses incorrectly and the coin is under one of the hands he has ordered off
 the table, the side holding the money keeps it again and wins that game.

A certain time set is the only way to end this game.

Mr. Chas. Anderson has joined the overseas forces, as a private. In a couple of weeks he will attend the officer's school at Kingston.

The recruiting meeting held in Grace church on Tuesday evening has already borne fruit. Lieut. Graham is receiving recruits every day for the 148th Batt.

A meeting was held at Selby town hall on Saturday evening to present Mr. Innes, who has joined the 148th Batt., with a wrist watch and a purse of $50.00. A programme followed the presentation and refreshments were served. The hall was crowded.

Everett Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Smith, is in Kingston Hospital as a result of a shooting accident. With Don Smith, a son of Mr. Harry Smith, he was out shooting with a small rifle. He pulled the trigger on a cartridge, but it failed to leave the gun and placing the gun under his arm he walked along, when, without warning the bullet shot out of the gun into his leg. He is recovering nicely.

The January issue of Rod and Gun in Canada is on the news-stands and a glance at the table of contents shows that the magazine is living up to its reputation as the leading exponent of outdoor life in Canada. Among the contributors noted are Edward T. Martin, R. J. Fraser, Jean Stevenson, F. V. Williams and Margaret Grant MacWhirter, while some of the articles are: Game Farming for Profit and Pleasure, Capacities, The Unwritten Law, Almost a Walkout, The Restigouche, etc., etc. In addition the regular departments devoted to Guns and Ammunition and Fishing Notes are well maintained. Trap shooters will be interested in the account of the recent Grand International shoot held at St. Thomas and dog lovers in the new Kennel department. Rod and Gun is published at Woodstock by W. J. Taylor Limited.

Recruiting for the Imperial Mechanical Transport is proceeding rapidly in all the military divisions under the direction of the Canadian authorities. To join the corps a man must be able to drive an automobile and attend to minor road troubles. He must have a sufficient knowledge of the engine to be able to learn more. The work is desirable and pay attractive. Separation allowance is paid. This transport is part of the British Army Service Corps which is probably the best organized and most efficient part of the British Army. Full particulars can be obtained by writing to the Officer commanding, Imperial Mechanical Transport Depot, Armouries, Cobourg, Ont. When writing state age, qualifications, address and phone (if any), and if possible give some local men as a reference as to character, experience and mechanical qualifications. Also mention the nearest centre where recruiting is proceeding for the local battalion of the Canadian Expeditionary Force. Applicants for this Mechanical Transport will be given their medical and mechanical examinations at these centres, or as arranged. Men enlisted in eastern Ontario are mobilizing at Cobourg. Pay starts on enlistment.

Farley—Nesbitt.

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. D. A. Nesbitt, I.P.S., and Mrs. Nesbitt, Tuesday, Dec. 28th, at 8.30 p.m., when their daughter, Olivia Gertrude, was united in marriage to Mr. Fred Raymond Farley, Phm.B., of North Bay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Farley, Newburgh. The home was prettily decorated with evergreens, smilax and carnations. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Sillery, B.A., B.D. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore ivory satin with Juliet cap of tulle and lace to match, and carried a white Testament with streamers of white satin ribbon and lily-of-the-valley. Eight girl friends of the bride formed an aisle with white ribbon from the drawing room door to a white altar effect, at the end of the room decorated with smilax and lily-of-the-valley. The bride was attended by her two sisters, Misses Mary and Constance Nesbitt, who were gowned in pale blue and carried pink roses. Mr. Burndage Kingston, was best man. Little Jean Nesbitt, Lindsay, made a pretty flower girl and carried the ring in a single rose. Mr. and Mrs. Farley left for a trip west, the latter wearing a gown of purple velvet, black Persian lamb coat and large black hat to match.

TRINITY CHURCH NOTES

The organ opening services were in every respect a pronounced success.
The concert on Friday evening was no doubt the greatest treat of the kind ever given to a Napanee audience.
The organ as to tone and quality and finish, is simply perfection itself.
Prof. Jordan is a wonder as an organist. He has few equals and perhaps no superiors on the continent. His playing was a perfect delight.

The selections rendered on Friday evening by Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. J.
E. Madden, former organists, were very much enjoyed and showed marked ability.
The solos by Messrs. Craig, of Kingston, and O'Hara, of New York, delighted the large audience. They were loudly encored again and again.
The services on Sunday will long be remembered. Notwithstanding the fearful condition of the walks the Church was filled at the morning service, and the Church and Sunday School at the evening.

Rev. A. Brown, of Kingston, preached a splendid sermon in the morning
in perfect keeping with the occasion.
The pastor spoke briefly on the influence of music. Miss Cruikshank and Mr. O'Hara sang with splendid effect at the morning service, and Miss Stork of Belleville, and Mr.
O'Hara at the evening. Mrs. O. M.
Myers gave an organ solo at the evening service which was much appreciated. The services of the day were full of blessing and all present must have realized a great spiritual uplift. Next Sunday Miss Pearl Nesbitt will preside
at the organ and lead the choir.

The pastor will give a New Year's message in the morning on "The Ideal Christian Life or the true Standard of Living." In the evening he will speak on "The life that immediately follows death." What do we mean by Paradise? How does Paradise differ from Heaven? What do we mean by Hades? What is the fate of our heroic soldiers, who have fallen on the battlefields of Europe? You are invited to hear this interesting subject discussed. The Methodist soldiers will attend the morning service.
